CARDINALS SMASH WAY TO SIXTH GAME WIN

VICIOUS HITTING ATTACK AGAINST SPOTTY PITCHING

ST. LOUIS DRAWS UP EVEN WITH THE YANKEE TEAM
SERIES NOW FORCED INTO THE SEVENTH GAME ON SUNDAY

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 9.—With a vicious hitting attack against very spotty pitching, the St. Louis Cardinals drew up even again with the New York Yankees in the world series when they won the sixth game here today by the lopsided score of 10 to 2.

It was an epidemic of hitting such as struck the Yankees in St. Louis that gave the National League champions the sixth game and forced the series into the seventh game.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, with an advantage of a one game lead before today's game, was in a position to gamble on his pitcher, and he lost when he put up the task to Bob Shawkey, one of his oldest and most experienced pitchers.

Shawkey was in danger from the start and was allowed to remain in the game until the seventh inning principally because of fast fielding.

The Cardinals scored three runs in the first inning on two singles, a double and an infield out and a base on balls. They scored again in the fifth on two singles, a sacrifice and an infield out. They put the game on ice by scoring five runs in the seventh on Lester Bell's home run, two doubles, a single and Lazzeri's error at first base. Again in the ninth a triple by Southworth and an infield out scored the last run.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cardinals, could take no chances and he was forced to use his big ace, the veteran Grover Cleveland Alexander, and Alexander justified the faith that his teammates placed in him by pitching a masterly game. He was seldom in danger and the Yankees got two runs principally because he had a lead enough where he did not have to bear down on every pitch.

The Yankees scored one run in the fourth inning on Meusel's triple and Dugan's single, and their second in the 7th on two singles and a wild throw by Bell.

The crowd was a distinct disappointment numerically. Whereas the management expected a record Saturday crowd of at least 60,000, there were only 48,616 paid admissions. The receipts were $169,392, which put the series over the $1,000,000 mark again. Of the receipts the clubs divided $143,985.20 and the share of the national advisory council was $25,408.80.

Tickets for the seventh game tomorrow were placed on sale immediately after the game and thousands of fans swarmed from the park to get places in the long line in front of the ticket windows. Among the many celebrities present were two that attracted the most attention, Gene Tunney, the new heavyweight champion, and Jack Dempsey, the former champion who was beaten by Tunney recently.

6TH GAME IN DETAIL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 9.—Facing their most serious plight of the series with a winning game essential to get back into the running for baseball's richest prize, the St. Louis Cardinals were back in enemy territory here today for the sixth game of the world series.

The Yanks, after winning two out of three games played in St. Louis, were again in a commanding position and were within one game of the world's championship they won the last time in 1925.

Because of the high regard for the pitching talents of Grover Cleveland Alexander, who was announced definitely to work in the box for St. Louis, the betting did not reflect the confidence the Yankee players and their partisans had that the American league champions would win today's game and finish the hectic series.

Betting commissioners were willing to lay 9 to 10 and let you take your choice.

The line-up:
St. Louis—Holm, cf; Southworth, rf; Hornsby, 2b; Bottomley, 1b; L. Bell, 3b; Hafez, lf; O'Farrell, c; Thewissen, ss; Alexander, p.
New York—Combs, cf; Koenig, ss; Ruth, rf; Meusel, lf; Gehrig, 1b; Lazzeri, 2b; Dugan, 3b; Severid, c; Shawkey, p.

AMERICAN BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY SEES EXPANSION

Washington, Oct. 9.—(UP)—American business and industry during the first nine months of 1926 expanded in new activities, further stabilizing the country's economic condition, the United States Chamber of Commerce announced today in a business survey.

Employment has been greater this year than in 1925, payrolls larger and production in industries reached a new high level, the chamber stated. Department stores have increased in volume, railroad car loadings are at a high peak, and virtually all commodities produced are practically passing into use.

Hildebrand at first; Klem on second; Dineen on third base.

After the two teams had gone through batting practice, Shawkey and Alexander went out to warm up and the ground keepers dressed up the infield. There were still thousands of empty seats in the bleachers and on the flanks of the upper stands.

The Yankee players rushed on the field and took their places. The game started at 1:34 P. M.

FIRST INNING

ST. LOUIS — Holm up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Foul, strike two. Foul. Ball two. Holm singled to right between Gehrig and Lazzeri. Southworth up. Foul, strike one. Ball one. Ball two. Foul, strike two. Southworth forced Holm at second, Koenig to Lazzeri and was almost doubled at first. Hornsby up. Ball one. Foul, strike one. Ball two. Strike two, called. Shawkey tried twice unsuccessfully to get Southworth at first. Ball three. Hornsby walked on a curve ball. Bottomley up. Foul, strike one. Ball one. Foul, strike two. Bottomley scored Southworth with a double down left field foul line. Hornsby stopping at third. L. Bell up. Strike one. Ball one. Ball two. Strike two, swung. Foul. Bell scored Hornsby and Bottomley with a single past Dugan. Hafez up. The Yankees gathered around Shawkey, but went back to their positions. Umpires O'Day and Dineen then went to the pitcher's box and talked with Shawkey. There seemed to be some kind of an argument and Shawkey talked back vehemently. The crowd yelled for action. Ball one. Strike one, swung. Strike two, swung. Hafez fanned on a bad ball. O'Farrell up. Ball one. Foul, strike one. Strike two, called. Ball two. O'Farrell fanned. THREE RUNS, THREE HITS, NO ERRORS.

Shawkey, the slowest pitcher in baseball, was unsteady throughout the entire inning and the St. Louis batters, by waiting him out, forced him to bear down on every pitch.

NEW YORK—Combs up. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. Combs out. Thewissen to Bottomley on a spectacular play. Alexander tipped the ball with his glove and got an assist. Koenig up. Ball one. It's two strikes. Koenig fanned, swung wildly for the third strike. Ruth gave Umpire O'Day a few choice words before he went to bat. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Strike one. Strike two, swung. Ruth out, Bottomley unassisted, on a hard drive. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Alexander started pitching like a master and relied chiefly on a fast ball. He worked hard on Ruth, keeping the ball low and inside.

SECOND INNING

ST. LOUIS—Thewissen up. Thewissen flew to Combs who made a fine running catch on the first ball. Alexander up. Strike one, swung. Ball one. Foul, strike two. Foul. Alexander flew to Meusel who had to run back fast for the catch. Holm up. Strike one, swung. Holm fanned to Severid back of the plate. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Shawkey was a little steadier but he was helped by two fine running catches by Combs and Meusel. Shawkey was still using a wide, sweeping curve.

NOTRE DAME FACES MINNESOTA, STADIUM FILLED

ALL THE "BIG GAME" SAVOR IS LENT TO THE AFFAIR

COACHES ROCKNE AND SPEARS GIVE NO HINT AS TO LINE-UP

Second Quarter
Notre Dame, 7; Minnesota, 7.

Minneapolis, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The all around excellence of the University of Notre Dame and the deceptive, smashing attack of the University of Minnesota were matched here today.

In the first big game of the middle west's 1926 season, the University of Minnesota, the question mark of the western conference, and the University of Notre Dame, generally the exclamation point of the country, were offered a real test of their respective wares.

The day started out by being just a little bit too warm to be ideal, and the skies were cloudy. Weather forecasts, however, were cheerful and would not even hint at one drop of rain.

For the first time the Memorial stadium was expected to be filled as the result of an indicated ticket sale of 55,000.

With many veterans from the 1925 team which Notre Dame defeated 19 to 7, Dr. Clarence W. Spears' big job has been to build up a defense. His attention was concentrated on attack last year and it was certain that the Gophers have plenty of that. Whether they can resist the running attack of the Irish was the question of the hour.

All the "big game" savor was lent to the affair by the refusal of Coaches Knute Rockne and Spears to give anybody a hint of their starting lineups.

GRINNELL COLLEGE TO MEET MARQUETTE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Milwaukee will have a chance to get its first glimpse of Marquette University 1926 football team when the Hill Toppers go into action against the strong Grinnell College team of Grinnell, Ia., at the Marquette stadium here this afternoon.

All indications point to ideal football weather.

New York, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Although outweighed by 15 pounds, Frank Diener, German heavyweight, won the judges' decision and the cheers of 15,000 fight fans in Madison Square Garden last night by out-fighting Knute Hansen of Racine, Wis.

FOUR WHITE MEN, 116 NATIVES ARE ENTOMBED IN MINE

Cape Town, South Africa, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Thirty bodies were recovered today from the Durban Navigation colliery, where four white men and 116 natives were entombed by a gas explosion. All of the entombed men are believed dead.

All the poisonous gas cleared to permit rescue work, the 30 bodies were recovered and work started to tear away the wreckage to facilitate removal of the others. The first bodies brought out were those of natives. The explosion completely destroyed the shaft.

POLAND, PEEVED AT LEAGUE OF NATIONS, RECALLS MINISTER

Warsaw, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Believed to be the result of the failure of Poland to secure a permanent seat in the League of Nations council, the government today recalled Minister Sokal, its representative in the League of Nations at Geneva.

PEOPLES STATE BANK OF DULUTH PAYS DIVIDEND

St. Paul, Oct. 9.—(UP)—A 20 per cent dividend amounting to $51,139 was paid to depositors in the People's State Bank of Duluth. The bank closed January 26, 1926 after peculations by G. W. Lorence, the cashier, who is now serving a term in the Stillwater penitentiary.

3 NORTH DAKOTA COUNTIES WITH NO FARM PROBLEM

FORM NORTHERN FRINGE FROM THE TURTLE MOUNTAINS

CLAIM FARM AFTER FARM WILL YIELD ITS COST IN CROPS

Minot, N. D., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Those counties which form the northern fringe of North Dakota from the Turtle Mountains westward have no agricultural problem.

"Farm after farm in northwest North Dakota will yield its cost in crops this year," a comprehensive survey by the Northwest North Dakota Development Association, declares. The survey gives many instances of $25 to $35 in agricultural products being yielded by acres valued at no more than that.

"Not only are such paying crops being taken off in wheat in Divide, Burke, Renville and Bottineau counties, but also in flax, alfalfa, sweet clover, and potatoes," the report says. The experiences of successful farmers are detailed by the survey.

Some of them follow in brief:
F. B. Becker, Des Lacs: got $10,000 from 660 acres of potatoes, or $15 an acre.

Roy Kasson, Minot: got 20 bushels an acre from 125 acres of potatoes in land selling at $2 to $40 an acre.

Peter Nelson, Flaxton: sixteen acres, seeded to corn last year, yielded 39 bushels an acre of wheat this year.

A. N. Sorby, Crosby: wheat on 90 acres of summer fallow yielded 25 bushels an acre. Average yield from 700 acres was 25 bushels an acre. He was getting $1.30 for his No. 1 Northern grade and the gross yield equaled the price of the land.

William Sims, Columbus: two years ago raised a sow for a Columbus banker. Of a litter of seven, kept four. Sold $800 in hogs last year and had 11 gilts left. Had 60 spring pigs this year and will sell about $1,600 worth this fall. This successful undertaking from a small beginning is not unusual.

Divide county will harvest a wheat crop of $5,000,000. Burke county, with a smaller acreage, will have a $5,000,000 wheat crop. Figures are based on the county assessors' figures of the acreage, an average yield of 18 to 20 bushels an acre and prevailing elevator prices.

IS FUGITIVE DEFENDANT IN EVANGELIST CASE

STATE'S FORCES CONCENTRATING ALL EFFORTS TO LOCATE OPERATOR

EVANGELIST'S HEARING ON CONSPIRACY CHARGES ADJOURNED

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
United Press Staff Correspondent
Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 9.—Operatives from both the sheriff and district attorney's offices joined today in a renewed man hunt for Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive co-defendant in the Almee Semple McPherson case.

All efforts of the state's force handling the case were to be concentrated over the week end on the search for the radio operator, while the evangelist's hearing on charges of conspiring to defeat justice was adjourned.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 9.—At the conclusion of its second week the Rev. Almee Semple McPherson's hearing on charges of obstructing justice settled down to a siege of wits with the end not yet in sight.

Attorneys for Mrs. McPherson have indicated that their defense will be that the shack in which she was held prisoner has burned and that it was for this reason and not because her story was a hoax that officials were unable to find it. The failure to substantiate the story resulted in her present hearing.

Oliver Allstrom, the "Texas poet," testified Mrs. McPherson included the incident in her orders to him for a book on her disappearance. The book was to have borne the title "Kidnaped," but was not finished when the state began amassing evidence intended to prove she really was with Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio operator, while she was missing.

FARMER HELD ON HIT AND RUN ACCIDENT CHARGE

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 9.—(UP)—W. O. Danielson of Georgetown, a farmer, is held here today on an unnamed charge in connection with a "hit and run" automobile accident, in which Miss Mabel Brink, 19, of Horace, N. D., was killed and Miss Anna Berg, 19, also of Horace, injured.

Danielson submitted to arrest Friday and according to authorities admitted that he was the driver of the automobile that struck the two young women and then sped away.

The women were Moorhead teacher college students.

The state's attorney was absent when Danielson was taken into custody but was expected to return today and determine the action to be taken.

HALF MILLION CHINESE REPORTED TO BE STARVING

Washington, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Efforts to save 500,000 starving Chinese and several hundred foreigners in the beleaguered city of Wuchang are being made by the United States government.

Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg today called American Minister MacMurray to make renewed efforts on behalf of native and foreign non-combatants following aid already given by American naval commanders in transporting several hundred persons from Wuchang to Hankow.

CHARGE OF SPYING FILED BY CHINESE AGAINST AMERICAN

Shanghai, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Josef W. Hall, teacher and newspaperman, is a prisoner in Sun Chuan Fang's headquarters in Nanking, where charges of spying have been filed against him.

Hall, who was a lecturer at the University of Washington, Seattle, was obtaining material for a series of magazine articles, when he was captured in Suchow, midway between Shanghai and Nanking. He was charged with being a spy in the employ of the Cantonese. Hall carried American passports.

Josef Washington Hall was formerly a missionary at Shantung and about 10 years ago entered newspaper work. He is the author of a number of books and articles dealing with China and speaks Chinese fluently. He formerly was associated with General Wu Pei Fu in an advisory capacity.

Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 9.—(UP)—The unique All Vegetarian football team of Battle Creek college played its second game and defeated Milton college of Milton, Wis., here yesterday, 3 to 0.

LABOR MEN IN PULPITS OF DETROIT

TO EXPLAIN THE RELATION OF LABOR TO CHRISTIANITY

ABOUT 18 SPEAKERS, INCLUDING PRES. GREEN, TO SPEAK SUNDAY

By FOSTER EATON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 9.—At the half way mark of a remarkable convention, the American Federation of Labor faces a brief week-end session today before mounting pulpits of Detroit Sunday to explain the relation of labor to christianity.

Approximately 18 speakers, including President William Green and other leaders of the American Federation of Labor, have definitely been placed by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, despite the church controversy which threw the convention into a turmoil.

While much remains for the consideration of the convention delegates today reviewed the fruits of their first week's labors and recorded the following high lights:

1. Mutual acknowledgment that a bitter fight is in progress here to unionize and denounce "open shop" Detroit.

2. An unprecedented open split between labor and local forces involving the board of commerce, the Y. M. C. A. and several churches.

3. An "indignation session" of the convention to denounce "sinister influence" of the board of commerce in blocking plans for a "labor Sunday."

4. Unanimous passage of a resolution inaugurating a campaign to organize the automotive industry of America.

5. Alleged violation of agreement by Dr. Sherwood Eddy, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who electrified the convention by delivering a striking defense of Soviet Russia.

6. Personal tour of the outstanding "open shop" example of the world, the Ford Motor Company, by officials and delegates of the convention.

7. Charges of A. J. Barres, secretary-treasurer of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, that the system of the Ford plant provides men "who cannot help but being good material for the radical and the demagogue to work upon."

Problems yet to be disposed of by the convention include an admittedly touchy resolution to urge recognition of Russia, endorsement of the five-day week in all industry, a resolution to express opposition to the world court and the League of Nations and proposed endorsement of Governor Al Smith of New York for election to the presidency of the United States.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE LONG AGO TO HOLD LEGION MEET AT PARIS

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Oct. 9.—A plan to draft General Pershing for commandship of the American Legion was made known here today by Legion officials preparing for the opening of the eighth annual Legion convention Monday in Philadelphia.

Their project is to elect Pershing despite his expressed wish to the contrary and with him as leader to take the ninth annual convention to Paris next fall.

The plan was conceived because of Pershing's popularity here and in France, in the belief that Pershing

Washington, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Colonel "Billy" Mitchell, center of the aircraft row a year ago, will be a member of the committee on aeronauts at the American Legion convention in Philadelphia next week.

Mitchell, flying ace, whose criticism of the air force was ignored by the last Legion convention in Omaha, will be a delegate as head of the Vincent B. Costello Legion post here.

could do more than any other man toward smoothing over any differences which might result from recent anti-American demonstrations abroad.

Legion chieftains say all arrangements had been made to go to Paris long before the recent press dispatches from abroad indicating that there was some ill feeling against the United States.

The state department, they plead, would be embarrassed if the year old scheme for taking the next convention abroad should be abandoned now. However, many of the departments of the Legion, including Illinois and Missouri have gone on record against the proposed trip.

Booms for individual candidates for commandship are being carried on in the supposition that Pershing would insist upon his declination to serve. Already five candidates are being prominently mentioned here, including Edward E. Spafford, New York; Howard Savage, Chicago; Thomas Amory Lee, Kansas, a former private, whose slogan is "a buck for commander"; Francis J. Good, Boston, and Q. E. Bodenhamer, Arkansas.

WORLD NOT FREE FROM COVETOUSNESS

Washington, Oct. 9.—(UP)—All the prestige of General John J. Pershing, retired commander of the armies, will be thrown on the side of the war department in its struggle with the budget bureau to maintain the present army strength.

This was the interpretation in army circles here today of Pershing's Philadelphia speech last night to the Military Order of the World War, in which he said:

"There is a point below which we cannot go without most serious results and we have reached that point. There can be no earthly justification for saving a few millions of dollars a year on the army during peace if as a consequence we must spend many billions in an emergency in an attempt to make up deficiencies and invariably this has been the consequence. The world is not yet free from jealousy and covetousness."

His attention was concentrated on attack last year and it was certain that the Gophers have plenty of that. Whether they can resist the running attack of the Irish was the question of the hour.

All the "big game" savor was lent to the affair by the refusal of Coaches Knute Rockne and Spears to give anybody a hint of their starting lineups.

GRINNELL COLLEGE TO MEET MARQUETTE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Milwaukee will have a chance to get its first glimpse of Marquette University 1926 football team when the Hill Toppers go into action against the strong Grinnell College team of Grinnell, Ia., at the Marquette stadium here this afternoon.

All indications point to ideal football weather.

FOUR WHITE MEN, 116 NATIVES ARE ENTOMBED IN MINE

Cape Town, South Africa, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Thirty bodies were recovered today from the Durban Navigation colliery, where four white men and 116 natives were entombed by a gas explosion. All of the entombed men are believed dead.

All the poisonous gas cleared to permit rescue work, the 30 bodies were recovered and work started to tear away the wreckage to facilitate removal of the others. The first bodies brought out were those of natives. The explosion completely destroyed the shaft.

POLAND, PEEVED AT LEAGUE OF NATIONS, RECALLS MINISTER

PEOPLES STATE BANK OF DULUTH PAYS DIVIDEND

St. Paul, Oct. 9.—(UP)—A 20 per cent dividend amounting to $51,139 was paid to depositors in the People's State Bank of Duluth.

The bank closed January 26, 1926 after, speculations by G. W. Lorence, the cashier, who is now serving a term in the Stillwater penitentiary. Today's dividend was the first. The checks were mailed to depositors by A. J. Veigel, state commissioner of banks.

3 NORTH DAKOTA COUNTIES WITH NO FARM PROBLEM

FORM NORTHERN FRINGE FROM THE TURTLE MOUNTAINS

CLAIM FARM AFTER FARM WILL YIELD ITS COST IN CROPS

Minot, N. D., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Those counties which form the northern fringe of North Dakota from the Turtle Mountains westward have no agricultural problem.

"Farm after farm in northwest North Dakota will yield its cost in crops this year," a comprehensive survey by the Northwest North Dakota Development Association, declares. The survey gives many instances of $25 to $35 in agricultural products being yielded by acres valued at no more than that.

"Not only are such paying crops being taken off in wheat in Divide, Burke, Renville and Bottineau counties, but also in flax, alfalfa, sweet clover and potatoes," the report says. The experiences of successful farmers are detailed by the survey.

Some of them follow in brief:
F. B. Becker, Des Lacs: got $10,000 from 660 acres of potatoes, or $175 an acre.

Roy Kasson, Minot: got 20 bushels an acre from 125 acres of potatoes in land selling at $2 to $40 an acre.
Peter Nelson, Flaxton: sixteen acres, seeded to corn last year, yielded 39 bushels an acre of wheat this year.

A. N. Sorby, Crosby: wheat on 90 acres of summer fallow yielded 25 bushels an acre. Average yield from 700 acres was 25 bushels an acre. He was getting $1.30 for his No. 1 Northern grade and the gross yield equalled the price of the land.

William Sims, Columbus: two years ago raised a sow for a Columbus banker. Of a litter of seven, kept four. Sold $800 in hogs last year and had 11 gilts left. Had 60 spring pigs this year and will sell about $1,600 worth this fall. This successful undertaking from a small beginning is not unusual.

Divide county will harvest a wheat crop of $6,000,000. Burke county, with a smaller acreage, will have a $5,000,000 wheat crop. Figures are based on the county assessors' figures of the acreage, an average yield of 18 to 20 bushels an acre and prevailing elevator prices.

IS FUGITIVE DEFENDANT IN EVANGELIST CASE

STATE'S FORCES CONCENTRATING ALL EFFORTS TO LOCATE OPERATOR

EVANGELIST'S HEARING ON CONSPIRACY CHARGES ADJOURNED

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
United Press Staff Correspondent

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 9.—Operatives from both the sheriff and district attorney's offices joined today in a renewed man hunt for Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive co-defendant in the Aimee Semple McPherson case.

All efforts of the state's force handling the case were to be concentrated over the week end on the search for the radio operator, while the evangelist's hearing on charges of conspiring to defeat justice was adjourned.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 9.—At the conclusion of its second week the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson's hearing on charges of obstructing justice settled down to a siege of wits with the end not yet in sight.

Attorneys for Mrs. McPherson have indicated that their defense will be that the shack in which she was held prisoner has burned and that it was for this reason and not because her story was a hoax that officials were unable to find it. The failure to substantiate the story resulted in her present hearing.

Oliver Allstrom, the "Texas poet," testified Mrs. McPherson included the incident in her orders to him for a book on her disappearance. The book was to have borne the title "Kidnaped," but was not finished when the state began amassing evidence intended to prove she really was with Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio operator, while she was missing.

FARMER HELD ON HIT AND RUN ACCIDENT CHARGE

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 9.—(UP)—W. O. Danielson of Georgetown, a farmer, is held here today on an unnamed charge in connection with a "hit and run" automobile accident, in which Miss Mabel Brink, 19, of Horace, N. D., was killed and Miss Anna Berg, 19, also of Horace, injured.

Danielson submitted to arrest Friday and according to authorities admitted that he was the driver of the automobile that struck the two young women and then sped away.

The women were Moorhead teacher college students.

The state's attorney was absent when Danielson was taken into custody but was expected to return today and determine the action to be taken.

HALF MILLION CHINESE REPORTED TO BE STARVING

Washington, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Efforts to save 500,000 starving Chinese and several hundred foreign-born Chinese in the beleaguered city of Wuchang are being made by the United States government.

CHARGE OF SPYING FILED BY CHINESE AGAINST AMERICAN

Shanghai, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Josef W. Hall, teacher and newspaperman, is a prisoner in Sun Chuan Fang's headquarters in Nanking, where charges of spying have been filed against him.

Hall, who was a lecturer at the University of Washington, Seattle, was obtaining material for a series of magazine articles, when he was captured in Suchow, midway between Shanghai and Nanking. He was charged with being a spy in the employ of the Cantonese, Hall carried American passports.

Josef Washington Hall was formerly a missionary at Shantung and about 10 years ago entered newspaper work. He is the author of a number of books and articles dealing with China and speaks Chinese fluently. He formerly was associated with General Wu Pei Fu in an advisory capacity.

LABOR MEN IN PULPITS OF DETROIT

TO EXPLAIN THE RELATION OF LABOR TO CHRISTIANITY

ABOUT 18 SPEAKERS, INCLUDING
PRES. GREEN, TO SPEAK
SUNDAY

By FOSTER EATON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 9.—At the half way mark of a remarkable convention, the American Federation of Labor faces a brief week-end session today before mounting pulpits of Detroit Sunday to explain the relation of labor to christianity.

Approximately 18 speakers, including President William Green and other leaders of the American Federation of Labor, have definitely been placed by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, despite the church controversy which threw the convention into a turmoil.

While much remains for the consideration of the convention delegates today reviewed the fruits of their first week's labors and recorded the following high lights:

1. Mutual acknowledgement that a bitter fight is in progress here to unionize and denounce "open shop" Detroit.

2. An unprecedented open split between labor and local forces involving the board of commerce, the Y. M. C. A. and several churches.

3. An "indignation session" of the convention to denounce "sinister influence" of the board of commerce in blocking plans for a "Labor Sunday."

4. Unanimous passage of a resolution inaugurating a campaign to organize the automotive industry of America.

5. Alleged violation of agreement by Dr. Sherwood Eddy, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who electrified the convention by delivering a striking defense of Soviet Russia.

6. Personal tour of the outstanding "open shop" example of the world, the Ford Motor Company, by officials and delegates of the convention.

7. Charges of A. J. Barres, secretary-treasurer of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, that the system of the Ford plant provides men "who cannot help but being good material for the radical and the demagogue to work upon."

Problems yet to be disposed of by the convention include an admittedly touchy resolution to urge recognition of Russia, endorsement of the five-day week in all industry, a resolution to express opposition to the world court and the League of Nations and proposed endorsement of Governor Al Smith of New York for election to the presidency of the United States.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE LONG AGO TO HOLD LEGION MEET AT PARIS

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Oct. 9.—A plan to draft General Pershing for commandship of the American Legion was made known here today by Legion officials preparing for the opening of the eighth annual Legion convention Monday in Philadelphia.

Their project is to elect Pershing despite his expressed wish to the contrary and with him as leader to take the ninth annual convention to Paris next fall.

The plan was conceived because of Pershing's popularity here and in France, in the belief that Pershing

Washington, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Colonel "Billy" Mitchell, center of the aircraft row a year ago, will be a member of the committee on aeronauts at the American Legion convention in Philadelphia next week. Mitchell, flying ace, whose criticism of the air force was ignored by the last Legion convention in Omaha, will be a delegate as head of the Vincent B. Costello Legion post here.

could do more than any other man toward smoothing over any differences which might result from recent anti-American demonstrations abroad.

Legion chieftains say all arrangements had been made to go to Paris long before the recent press dispatches from abroad indicating that there was some ill feeling against the United States.

The state department, they plead, would be embarrassed if the year old scheme for taking the next convention abroad should be abandoned now. However, many of the departments of the Legion, including Illinois and Missouri have gone on record against the proposed trip.

Booms for individual candidates for commandship are being carried on in the supposition that Pershing would insist upon his declination to serve. Already five candidates are being prominently mentioned here, including Edward E. Spafford, New York; Howard Savage, Chicago; Thomas Amory Lee, Kansas, a former private, whose slogan is "a buck for commander"; Francis J. Good, Boston, and Q. E. Bodenhamer, Arkansas.

WORLD NOT FREE FROM COVETOUSNESS

Washington, Oct. 9.—(UP)—All the prestige of General John J. Pershing, retired commander of the armies, will be thrown on the side of the war department in its struggle with the budget bureau to maintain the present army strength.

This was the interpretation in army circles here today of Pershing's Philadelphia speech last night to the Military Order of the World War, in which he said:

"There is a point below which we cannot go without most serious results and we have reached that point. There can be no earthly justification for saving a few millions of dollars a year on the army during peace if as a consequence we must spend many billions in an emergency in an attempt to make up deficiencies and invariably this has been the consequence. The world is not yet free from jealousy and covetousness."

FREEMAN'S CANOE LEAVES ST. PAUL

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC MAGAZINE MAN PORTAGED ANOKA TO ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Oct. 9.—(UP)—With a splash the canoe of Lewis R. Freeman, author, traveler and magazine writer, took to the water of the Mississippi river yesterday and Freeman continued his exploration of the Father of Waters from the source to the Gulf in search of material for a series of articles in the National Geographic Magazine.

Freeman traveled by leisurely stages, reached Anoka a week ago, and had to convey himself and canoe by automobile to St. Paul, the head of navigation.

ILLINOIS ISLAND TOWN FACES A STRENUOUS CRISIS

STAGE OF THE ILLINOIS RIVER REACHES HIGHEST FLOOD PEAK

Beardstown, Ill., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Entirely surrounded by water and almost completely inundated Beardstown today faced the most serious crisis of its two weeks' flood havoc. The stage of the Illinois river shortly after daybreak was 25.88 feet, the highest in the history of the city. Added to this was the prediction by forecasters that the river would reach 26 feet today.

A survey of the city by the United Press revealed that only 18 houses in the city are above the waters which have overflowed from broken levees and crept into the town.

Hundreds of homes are entirely ruined, the water having reached the level of lower floor ceilings. Approximately 1,500 families are homeless.

WOMAN BARES
ALL HER MISERY

MRS. EMMA OWENS TELLS OF ABUSE ENDURED FROM HER HUSBAND

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Baring all her misery, humiliation and abuse heaped upon her during her married life, Mrs. Emma Owens told a crowded court here the details which led up to the death of her husband, Joseph "Diamond Joe" Owens, who was killed by his son, Harold, here last June.

She told her story in a simple manner. There were no dramatics. She told her story despite all the humiliation in the hope of saving her son, who is being tried on a first degree murder charge.

During the course of her testimony in which she explained how she had suffered because of her husband's abuse, she told how she had been marked for death. How she had sat through most of one night beside her husband who watched over her with a revolver, having set the hour of her death. How the hour approached and how she was granted reprieve after reprieve only to make her terror and agony more severe.

She tried to be lenient with the dead, but she told all in her effort to save her son from a prison term, the son who had come to aid her and who she said shot and killed his father protecting her.

Mrs. Margaret Owens Smith, sister of the defendant, who collapsed while on the stand yesterday, is expected to be recalled as a witness today.

A Comfortable Southern Colonial Cottage

Five-Room House No. 537

A TOUCH of the dignity surrounding the Southern Colonial home is apparent in this smaller counterpart of those famed and stately mansions. It is the sort of a homey house that just suits the smaller American family.

It is rare that such a satisfactory and attractive exterior can be designed for a narrow lot. This home can be built on as small a lot as forty feet although if a driveway is required fifty feet would be necessary.

Brick walls of uniform color or of blended and mingled shades would be suitable to this substantial home. The clear, firm lines of the interesting roof are most important in this instance and should, as a consequence, be of a beautiful and durable material such as tile or slate; in keeping with the brick exterior and giving added strength to the general impression of permanence.

The portico, with its brick steps and Georgian gable, greets the visitor with a hospitable air of quiet good taste.

Well placed, on the corner of the house, a roomy porch entered from the living room by French doors, offers a vista, as well as breezes on three sides. It can be easily converted into a sun parlor.

Designed for American Face Brick Association

From the portico, the living room is reached thru an entrance made attractive by reason of its unusual arched opening and doorway.

In the far corner of the living room the fireplace is set at an angle. A large casement opening leads into the dining room.

Between the dining room and kitchen, the breakfast nook, with its china cabinet and double casement windows, promises pleasant mornings.

The kitchen is well arranged with its sink beneath the windows, with a cabinet to the left and the range to the right. In addition there is a pantry with outside access to the refrigerator.

From the dining room a hall connects the two bedrooms and bath. The front bedroom opens to the living room and the one in the rear to a sleeping porch. Provision is made for a fireplace in this bedroom. The hall contains a wide linen cabinet.

Either a full or part basement may be had to suit climatic conditions. The attic is large and well ventilated, contributing both to the coolness of the house in summer and its warmth in winter. However, if desired, the attic may be made into two good rooms.

The ceiling height is 9 feet 6 inches, and the content 33,500 cubic feet.

CRISISSTAGE OF THE ILLINOIS RIVER REACHES HIGHEST FLOOD PEAK

Beardstown, Ill., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Entirely surrounded by water and almost completely inundated Beardstown today faced the most serious crisis of its two weeks' flood havoc. The stage of the Illinois river shortly after daybreak was 25.88 feet, the highest in the history of the city. Added to this was the prediction by forecasters that the river would reach 26 feet today. A survey of the city by the United Press revealed that only 18 houses in the city are above the waters which have overflowed from broken levees and crept into the town.

Hundreds of homes are entirely ruined, the water having reached the level of lower floor ceilings. Approximately 1,500 families are homeless.

WOMAN BARES
ALL HER MISERYMRS. EMMA OWENS TELLS OF ABUSE ENDURED FROM HER HUSBAND

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Baring all her misery, humiliation and abuse heaped upon her during her married life, Mrs. Emma Owens told a crowded court here the details which led up to the death of her husband, Joseph "Diamond Joe" Owens, who was killed by his son, Harold, here last June.

She told her story in a simple manner. There were no dramatics. She told her story despite all the humiliation in the hope of saving her son, who is being tried on a first degree murder charge.

During the course of her testimony in which she explained how she had suffered because of her husband's abuse, she told how she had been marked for death. How she had sat through most of one night beside her husband who watched over her with a revolver, having set the hour of her death. How the hour approached and how she was granted reprieve after reprieve only to make her terror and agony more severe.

She tried to be lenient with the dead, but she told all in her effort to save her son from a prison term, the son who had come to aid her and who she said shot and killed his father protecting her.

Mrs. Margaret Owens Smith, sister of the defendant, who collapsed while on the stand yesterday, is expected to be recalled as a witness today.

A Comfortable Southern Colonial Cottage

Five-Room House No. 537

Designed for American Face Brick Association

A TOUCH of the dignity surrounding the Southern Colonial home is apparent in this smaller counterpart of those famed and stately mansions. It is the sort of a homey house that just suits the smaller American family.

It is rare that such a satisfactory and attractive exterior can be designed for a narrow lot. This home can be built on as small a lot as forty feet although if a driveway is required fifty feet would be necessary.

Brick walls of uniform color or of blended and mingled shades would be suitable to this substantial home. The clear, firm lines of the interesting roof are most important in this instance and should, as a consequence, be of a beautiful and durable material such as tile or slate; in keeping with the brick exterior and giving added strength to the general impression of permanence.

The portico, with its brick steps and Georgian gable, greets the visitor with a hospitable air of quiet good taste.

Well placed, on the corner of the house, a roomy porch entered from the living room by French doors, offers a vista, as well as breezes on three sides. It can be easily converted into a sun parlor.

From the portico, the living room is reached thru an entrance made attractive by reason of its unusual arched opening and doorway.

In the far corner of the living room the fireplace is set at an angle. A large cased opening leads into the dining room.

Between the dining room and kitchen, the breakfast nook, with its china cabinet and double casement windows, promises pleasant mornings.

The kitchen is well arranged with its sink beneath the windows, with a cabinet to the left and the range to the right. In addition there is a pantry with outside access to the refrigerator.

From the dining room a hall connects the two bedrooms and bath. The front bedroom opens to the living room and the one in the rear to a sleeping porch. Provision is made for a fireplace in this bedroom. The hall contains a wide linen cabinet.

Either a full or part basement may be had to suit climatic conditions. The attic is large and well ventilated, contributing both to the coolness of the house in summer and its warmth in winter. However, if desired, the attic may be made into two good rooms.

The ceiling height is 9 feet 6 inches, and the content 33,500 cubic feet.

W. A. Stuart Builds Magnificent Salvation Army Citadel

AT OKMULGEE, OKLAHOMA

War Cry Issue of October 2 Expresses Appreciation of His Generosity

The front cover of the October 2 issue of the War Cry contains a picture of W. A. Stuart and a magnificent Salvation Army citadel which is being built at Okmulgee, Okla., and which, with the cost of the site will amount to $30,000 a generous gift to the army by Mr. Stuart, who, as far as can be learned, now resides at Lawrence, Kan.

Mr. Stuart is a prominent lumberman and is very well known to Brainerd people having spent his summers here with his wife for many years. He owns a beautiful summer home adjoining the estate of Mrs. Flora Elder on Gull Lake and during the summer months of past years motored in nearly every day to play his round of golf at the Country club.

How Mr. Stuart came to make the gift is told by Ensign Wm. Oliver who is stationed at Okmulgee, and reads:

"My first meeting with Mr. Stuart occurred while I was standing in the bank one day in 1925. He came and introduced himself and told me that he had not made his usual contribution to the army for that year. Mr. Stuart has a chain of lumber yards amounting to something like 15 in Oklahoma and Kansas. In each town where the Salvation army and one of his lumber yards are located, the yard donates $120 per year to the corps. Mr. Stuart handed me $120 and told me that he had no yard here but lived in Okmulgee.

"I had no more such dealings with Mr. Stuart until just the week before Christmas when he came to the door of our quarters and gave my wife a check for $150, for the purpose of providing a Christmas tree. He said he wanted to be sure that the poor children of Okmulgee had a good Christmas and that he wanted none to go without. The Christmas tree was provided and the youngsters had a good time.

"Then one day after Christmas, a very cold day, when I came home from visiting to warm myself, he came to the door again. I asked him in and to have a seat. He sat down and told me that he understood we needed a new hall in Okmulgee and that he was going to build it for us. He asked me where I would like to have it. I took him to a lot, 60x100 feet and told him that this was the place I would like to have the hall. It is a very choice location only 100 feet from the public square. Mr. Stuart went at once and purchased the lot and turned the deed over to the Salvation Army. Soon the contract was let for our new $25,000 citadel.

NEW DRAFT OF AUTO REGULATIONS

Minneapolis, Oct. 9.—(UP)—A draft of automobile regulations to be proposed to the next legislature has been drawn up by the traffic committee of the Minnesota League of Municipalities.

One of the most important of the recommendations is for a measure that would make drivers' licenses compulsory. Examination of drivers is proposed with the exception of those who have been driving automobiles for one year prior to the passage of the suggested act.

Another recommendation would make all municipal laws and ordinances, regulating automobiles, automobile drivers and automobile traffic uniform.

Revocation of licenses is proposed following conviction of drivers of any of the following offenses:

Driving while intoxicated. Running away from scene of an accident. Perjury to obtain license. Reckless driving, second offense. A general traffic conference which is to be called in November will consider the traffic committee's suggestions before they are in final form for the legislature.

Tracked by the Police

Copyright, 1926, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. "TRACKED BY THE POLICE," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
In France Jimmy Ford adopts an orphan puppy, names it Rin-Tin-Tin and smuggles it home after the war. Murtagh, a crooked politician, covets Jimmy's sweetheart, Ruth Allen. Jimmy's father, a police lieutenant, is mysteriously murdered. Jimmy joins the Force to avenge him. Jimmy has an ally in Rin-Tin-Tin, now full-grown. Murtagh, having and fearing Jimmy, has him assigned to the feared neighborhood of the Hudson Busters, a gang Murtagh secretly leads. The police declare the district a dead line; Jimmy, seeing some gangsters, approaches to order them out—

Together Jimmy and Rinty strode toward the corner, where half a dozen of the young toughs, who had but lately quit the headquarters of the Busters under Dan's orders to "get" Jimmy, were idling. The rowdies tried to make believe that they were paying no attention to his approach, when Jimmy needed but half an eye to warn him that they were sizing him up and down covertly and thoroughly.

He approached them steadily, calmly. When he drew close he noticed a sudden movement—to flank him obviously. He gave no sign of alarm—did not let on that he had noticed. But under his breath he whispered a word to Rinty to be alert. Rinty crowded close to Jimmy's legs and moved along to a bristly way.

The Busters had chosen their muscaded spot well; it was a deserted corner in the center of Jimmy's beat, remote from the possible aid of the cops on the skirting beats.

When Jimmy and Rinty drew closest of them, slowing down to meet them, eye for eye, the young fellows in a clumsy manner intended to appear accidentally jostled him. Jimmy managed his temper beautifully, stopped and inquired:

The Busters swarmed around him.

"What's the big idea? Ain't the sidewalk wide enough for you fellows?"

Bang! A heavy fist landed flush on the side of Jimmy's jaw. Crunch! A heavier boot landed squarely in the pit of Rinty's stomach.

Down, both of them, the cop dazed, the dog writhing in agony. A shower of kicks and fists. Jimmy doubled up and covered his head with his hands instinctively. It looked like a certain and fearful beating for the two, new cop and cherished dog. A beating that would break the spirit—perhaps the backs—of both of them. Make them glad to never see the waterfront again.

The exuberant triumph of the Busters was suddenly checked, however, by an unexpected counter. Even as he gasped painfully for breath Rinty flashed his fangs in the morning light, ripping to the bone the leg of one of the gangsters who was about to kick him again.

Screaming in pain, the thug dropped to his hands and knees and tried to crawl away from the spot. His pals left off mauling Jimmy and sprang en masse upon Rinty. Now, however, these mongrel humans were to see and feel and know the stuff of which real thoroughbreds are made. As they rushed upon him Rinty struggled to his feet, elastically unsteadily, then struck with all the devastating force of a saw-toothed tornado.

The splendid recuperative powers of his huge body were quickly pulsing him back to normal strength and swiftness now. Snarling low and horribly, throwing his body around like a self animated scythe, he attacked the gangsters—one after another, all together. A few onlookers gathered, running from all directions, popping into view seemingly by magic, as they will in even the most deserted localities when a fight starts. In horror and fear that they might be mistaken for a foe by the fighting dog, they remained at a respectful distance. But they witnessed a game, thrilling, fascinating exhibition of what the highly intelligent Rinty was possible of in the way of a combat against unequal odds.

With blackjacks and kicks and pistols the Busters swarmed around him. Rinty ducked the blackjacks, sidestepped the kicks and slashed so swiftly whenever a pistol was raised that the aim was spoiled. Thrashing with his body as an infuriated crocodile snaps its tail, he bowled over some; a neat little trick of thrusting his head between their legs and giving a quick flip and upturn to his body upset the others. Within a few bewildering moments after the beginning of the fight full blast every one of the gangsters was on the pavement, bleeding, crawling, frantically seeking one thing and one thing only—escape!

Meanwhile Jimmy, never for a moment forgetting the old captain's injunction to "keep cool," recovered his senses, clambered to his feet, unsheathed his blackjack and went to work in Rinty's aid. Soon the sidewalk was littered with as subdued a collection of tough guys, groaning out abjectly in the ache of broken heads and mangled shins, as ever suffered from the ministrations of any strong arm squad.

Those who, taking advantage of Jimmy's insufficient supply of handcuffs, tried to escape were promptly worried back into the groveling group by Rinty's savage fangs.

"Watch 'em, Rinty, while I phone for the wagon!"

The amazed onlookers moved closer. They had been the startled witnesses of a sight unprecedented in the toughest section of Old Chelsea. The Hudson Busters, terrors of new cops, beaten and smashed and arrested—by a lone man and his dog! Wonderful, incredible day! Was the reign of these roughnecks at an end at last? The honest citizens amongst the onlookers ejaculated fervent thanks to the cop and Rinty. But one there was who was a spy, and he sped away toward the gang's headquarters with this most disconcerting news.

The "wagon" came a-belling. The handful of reserves who jumped out looked upon the scene with even greater amazement than had the citizens. Sergeant Mulcahy beamed at the somewhat battered, but grimly exultant, Jimmy and said:

"A good start, lad. Maybe 'twill teach these bums to respect you, and you'll have no further trouble." "The whole credit belongs to Rinty," said Jimmy honestly.

"Do you and Rinty want to be relieved to get your bumps doctored?"

"Not a bit of it," snapped Jimmy. "We're just beginning to enjoy ourselves!"

The gangsters, cowering, as gangsters always will, under the sheer weight of guardian blue, made Jimmy the target of their hateful, hateful glares. He returned the compliment with cool contempt.

"We weren't doin' nothin'," whined one of the bullies. "When this guy comes along an' picks a scrap with us, wait until Mr. Murtagh hears about this. We'll complain to him, an' he'll get the commissioner to settle this smart b—"

"Can it be that the fine Mr. Murtagh is a friend of the likes of you?" asked Jimmy sarcastically. The bully flinched. "Well, I know him, an' he's a friend of everybody who gets into trouble when it ain't their own fault."

"Just tell him, then, if he's so much the good angel of the Hudson Busters that Jimmy Ford is the cop who made the arrest. He'll be doubly interested then."

The fine and personal bite of this was not wholly lost on the gangsters and the delighted cops who now rode off with them in the wagon. Jimmy, left with Rinty on the triumphant battlefield, shared with the frisking dog the adulations of a small crowd of longshoremen.

But as Jimmy smiled at the crowd and walked off with Rinty his thoughts were not concerned with this flashing glory, except in so far as the episode impressed him as a most auspicious start for his long quest of vengeance. Somehow inside he felt vastly encouraged that the fortunate turn of this first encounter with the Hudson Busters augured the eventual success of his heart and soul entrenched purpose to unearth and track down the murderer of his father.

Long ago the honest folk of Chelsea had ceased to think about that mysterious crime. With the lay public at large it had followed the usual course of such nine day sensations. But with the police, and with Jimmy Ford in particular, it was a matter of always fresh personal and professional interest. Jimmy felt to thinking deeply of it as he walked alone. Always he connected Murtagh with the deed. But he knew no motive that would lead Murtagh to either commit or inspire the murder. Knew nothing, except his own suspicions and the suspicions his father had always had of the man. But—suspicions made poor juice for the electric chair!

NEGRO, CHARGED WITH MURDER, SPIRITED AWAY

Dover, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Herbert Bell, negro, accused of the murder of a white farmer, was spirited from the county jail here last night by a group of more than 75 men.

Early today the negro had not been found.

The negro was arrested shortly after the murder of Rufus Joyner, Sheriff L. L. Ellis had thought public sentiment against the negro had died down and no special precautions were being taken to guard the negro.

A search is being made for Bell today by officers.

Screaming in pain, the thug dropped to his hands and knees and tried to crawl away from the spot. His pals left off mauling Jimmy and sprang en masse upon Rinty. Now, however, these mongrel humans were to see and feel and know the stuff of which real thoroughbreds are made. As they rushed upon him Rinty struggled to his feet, sidestepped unsteadily, then struck with all the devastating force of a saw-toothed tornado.

The splendid recuperative powers of his huge body were quickly pulsing him back to normal strength and swiftness now. Snarling low and horribly, throwing his body around like a self animated scythe, he attacked the gangsters—one after another, all together.

A few onlookers gathered, running from all directions, popping into view seemingly by magic, as they will in the most deserted localities when a fight starts. In horror and fear that they might be mistaken for a foe by the fighting dog, they remained at a respectful distance. But they witnessed a game, thrilling, fascinating exhibition of what the highly intelligent Rinty was capable of in the way of a combat against unequal odds.

With blackjacks and kicks and pistols the Busters swarmed around him. Rinty ducked the blackjacks, sidestepped the kicks and slashed so swiftly whenever a pistol was raised that the aim was spoiled. Thrashing with his body as an infuriated crocodile snaps its tail, he bowled over some; a neat little trick of thrusting his head between their legs and giving a quick flip and upturn to his body upset the others. Within a few bewildering moments after the beginning of the fight full blast every one of the gangsters was on the pavement, bleeding, crawling, frantically seeking one thing and one thing only—escape!

Meanwhile Jimmy, never for a moment forgetting the old captain's injunction to "keep cool," recovered his senses, clambered to his feet, unseathed his blackjack and went to work in Rinty's aid. Soon the sidewalk was littered with as subdued a collection of tough guys, groaning out abjectedly in the ache of broken heads and mangled shins, as ever suffered from the ministrations of any strong arm squad.

Those who, taking advantage of Jimmy's inefficient supply of handcuffs, tried to escape were promptly worried back into the groveling group by Rinty's savage fangs.

"Watch 'em, Rinty, while I phone for the wagon!"

The amazed onlookers moved closer. They had been the startled witnesses of a sight unprecedented in the toughest section of Old Chelsea. The Hudson Busters, terrors of new cops, beaten and smashed and arrested—by a lone man and his dog! Wonderful, incredible day! Was the reign of these roughnecks at an end at last?

The honest citizens amongst the onlookers ejaculated fervent thanks to the cop and Rinty. But one there was who was a spy, and he sped away toward the gang's headquarters with this most disconcerting news.

The "wagon" came abelling. The handful of reserves who jumped out looked upon the scene with even greater amazement than had the citizens. Sergeant Mulcahy beamed at the somewhat battered, but grimly exultant, Jimmy and said:

"A good start, lad. Maybe 'twill teach these bums to respect you, and you'll have no further trouble."

"The whole credit belongs to Rinty," said Jimmy honestly. "Do you and Rinty want to be relieved to get your bumps doctored?"

"Not a bit of it," snapped Jimmy. "We're just beginning to enjoy ourselves!"

The gangsters, cowering, as gangsters always will, under the sheer weight of guardian blue, made Jimmy the target of their baleful, hateful glares. He returned the compliment with cool contempt.

"We weren't doin' nothin'," whined one of the bullies, "when this guy comes along an' picks a scrap with us. Wait until Mr. Murtagh hears about this. We'll complain to him, an' he'll get the commissioner to settle this smart b—"

"Can it be that the fine Mr. Murtagh is a friend of the likes of you?" asked Jimmy sarcastically. The bully fidgeted. "Well, I know him, an' he's a friend of everybody who gets into trouble when it ain't their own fault."

"Just tell him, then, if he's so much the good angel of the Hudson Busters that Jimmy Ford is the cop who made the arrest. He'll be doubly interested then."

The fine and personal bite of this was not wholly lost on the gangsters and the delighted cops who now rode off with them in the wagon. Jimmy, left with Rinty on the triumphant battlefield, shared with the frisking dog the adulations of a small crowd of longshoremen.

But as Jimmy smiled at the crowd and walked off with Rinty his thoughts were not concerned with this flashing glory, except in so far as the episode impressed him as a most auspicious start for his long quest of vengeance. Somehow inside he felt vastly encouraged that the fortunate turn of this first encounter with the Hudson Busters augured the eventual success of his heart and soul entrenched purpose to unearth and track down the murderer of his father.

Long ago the honest folk of Chelsea had ceased to think about that mysterious crime. With the lay public at large it had followed the usual course of such nine day sensations. But with the police, and with Jimmy Ford in particular, it was a matter of always fresh personal and professional interest. Jimmy fell to thinking deeply of it as he walked along. Always he connected Murtagh with the deed. But he knew no motive that would lead Murtagh to either commit or inspire the murder. Knew nothing, except his own suspicions and the suspicions his father had always had of the man. But—suspicions made poor juice for the electric chair!

Critics Hail Harry Langdon in "The Strong Man" as Season's Best Comedy

New York motion picture critics saw a preview of Harry Langdon's latest laugh lampoon "The Strong Man," last week, and were unanimous in declaring that the First National star had definitely arrived in the first rank of comedy kings. The film comes to the Lyceum Sunday for two days.

Frances Comstock, eminent reviewer, said: "Harry Langdon deserves the crown of clowns, be it a battered brown derby or his own inimitable felt hat."

NEGRO, CHARGED WITH MURDER, SPIRITED AWAY

Dover, Tenn., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Herbert Bell, negro, accused of the murder of a white farmer, was spirited from the county jail here last night by a group of more than 75 men.

Early today the negro had not been found.

The negro was arrested shortly after the murder of Rufus Joyner. Sheriff L. L. Ellis had thought public sentiment against the negro had died down and no special precautions were being taken to guard the negro.

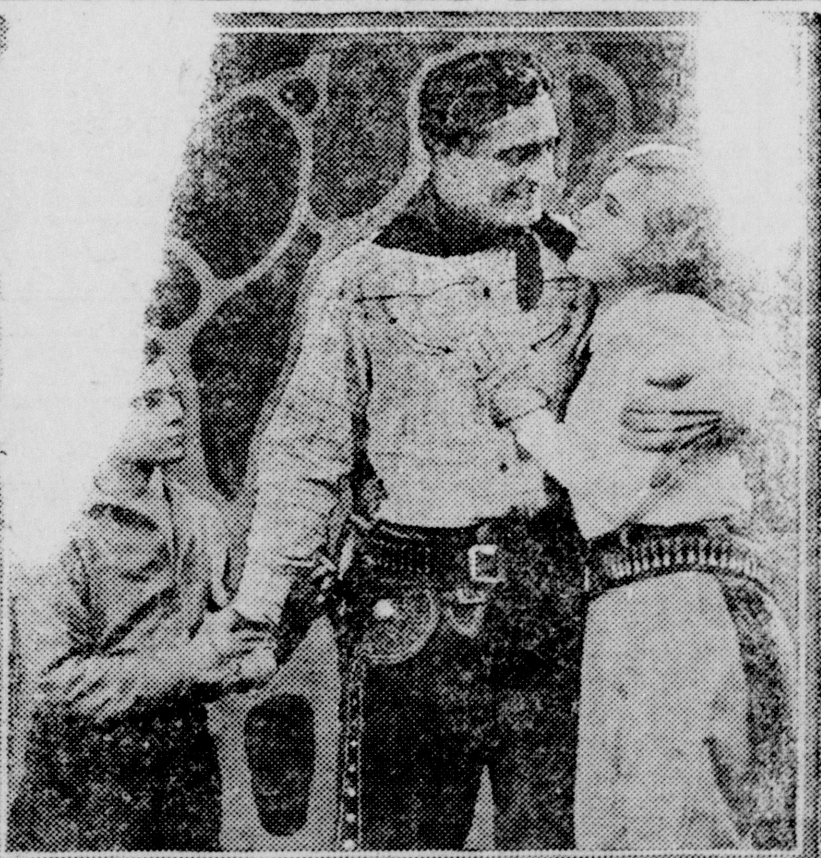

A search is being made for Bell today by officers.

BRAINERD
25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Oct. 8, 1901

Judge W. S. McClenahan returned this morning from Bemidji where he has held a term of the district court for Beltrami county. Something like 200 cases were disposed of and it was a very busy term. Stenographer Moody returned with the judge.

A. L. Hoffman, the popular hardware merchant has returned from Sauk Center where he went to look after his farming interests. While there the thrashing was done and he states that the yield of his farm this year was excellent.

This morning workmen commenced to overhaul the interior of the First Congregational church, plans having been made for extensive improvements which will add materially to its appearance. The walls are either to be repapered or calomined. The woodwork is to be repainted and new carpeting is to be put down. The renovating of the church will be thorough and the edifice will be made a place of beauty.

A delightful musical and social event was the second recital given by the pupils of Miss Evelyn Withersell at her home on Kindred street Saturday evening. Pupils and friends to the number of 60 were entertained. Roses and ferns were used in the decoration of the parlors and carnations and potted plants in the dining room. After an interesting program light refreshments were served and by request, Mrs. W. E. Crane gave a whistling solo and J. Patek accompanied by Mrs. Henry I. Cohen gave a mandolin solo both of which were rendered in a faultless manner and were much enjoyed by the company present. The following pupils gave the program in a manner reflecting credit upon themselves and their teacher. Instrumental: The Misses Nellie Alderman, Lucille Benjamin, Nellie Haladay, Marie Brady, Louise Esmy, Grace Hessel, Maggie Gueneen, Mrs. Graham and Master Harry Patek. Vocal: Miss Allen Brady, and Messrs Jay Patek, Floyd Brown and W. H. Williams.

It consists of a moving arm that places each seedling in a hole and another attachment that covers it with earth. It saves nine-tenths of the time usually employed in planting cabbages.

Chicken's Storehouse

As a chicken stores away water for future use on the dry wastes of the desert, so, it is said, a fowl can carry grit in its gizzard sufficient to last a year, provided the chicken could get no more.

BRAINERD
25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Oct. 8, 1901

Judge W. S. McClenahan returned this morning from Bemidji where he has held a term of the district court for Beltrami county. Something like 200 cases were disposed of and it was a very busy term. Stenographer Moody returned with the judge.

A. L. Hoffman, the popular hardware merchant has returned from Sauk Center where he went to look after his farming interests. While there the thrashing was done and he states that the yield of his farm this year was excellent.

This morning workmen commenced to overhaul the interior of the First Congregational church, plans having been made for extensive improvements which will add materially to its appearance. The walls are either to be repapered or calomined. The woodwork is to be repainted and new carpeting is to be put down. The renovating of the church will be thorough and the edifice will be made a place of beauty.

A delightful musical and social event was the second recital given by the pupils of Miss Evelyn Withers at her home on Kindred street Saturday evening. Pupils and friends to the number of 60 were entertained. Roses and ferns were used in the decoration of the parlors and carnations and potted plants in the dining room. After an interesting program light refreshments were served and by request, Mrs. W. E. Crane gave a whistling solo and J. Patek accompanied by Mrs. Henry I. Cohen gave a mandolin solo both of which were rendered in a faultless manner and were much enjoyed by the company present. The following pupils gave the program in a manner reflecting credit upon themselves and their teacher. Instrumental: The Misses Nellie Alderman, Lucille Benjamin, Nellie Haladay, Marie Brady, Louise Esmy, Grace Hessel, Maggie Gueneen, Mrs. Graham and Master Harry Patek. Vocal: Miss Aileen Brady, and Messrs Jay Patek, Floyd Brown and W. H. Williams.

DR. ROY SMITH'S SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

ANAEMIC TRUTH

The best way to deal with a heretic, whether he is a social, political or religious radical, is not to lock him up but to answer his arguments.

Orthodoxy pays Heresy a great compliment when it demands that the heretic shall be put behind bars for that is a partial admission that he has arguments that cannot be answered.

Orthodoxy's alarm when attacked is poor advertising. It gives the impression that the orthodox are not sure of their position.

Twenty-two karat truth has nothing to fear from error. It may suffer temporary reverses but it can afford to be as patient as destiny for the centuries of eternity are its best defenders.

The race has been building up a conscience on the subject of sex purity for hundreds of years. Can the accumulated convictions of the ages be overthrown by one speech or pamphlet by some sex theorist of the ultra-modern school? If our convictions have so little vitality they deserve to be overthrown.

Religion has enjoyed the services of the best brains, talents and consciences of humanity for years. If the religious life of the race is so anaemic that it can be completely destroyed by the fulminations of some atheist or philosophical faddist then it is certain to fail under the hard blows of experience.

The professional economists have long asserted that certain principles of social administration were false but Russia is trying them. The economists can well afford to give the experiment a hearty welcome. If the economists are right Russia will soon prove it. If Russia is right all the world wants to know it.

If the Russians become happier, enjoy greater liberties and share in more good things under a dictatorship of the proletariat than we do under Democracy we will all want to live under a dictatorship. But if Russia fails the cause of Democracy will be stronger everywhere.

Truth that must depend upon force for its effectiveness is anaemic. Doctrines and beliefs that cannot be trusted to take care of themselves in a rough and tumble world are hardly worth preserving.

ORNATE BUILDING RAISED AS TRIBUTE TO STATE'S HISTORY

A history, a tribute, a prophecy, the beautiful Pennsylvania building, standing almost at the center of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition grounds is a fitting monument to the prowess and progress of the state.

It is built in an open square, facing the entrance, an invitation and a welcome to the visitors who, with Philadelphia, are celebrating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The building has been designed to show, almost at a glance, what this century and a half has meant to Pennsylvania. Beautifully executed panels in bas relief about the wall of this open court recount the early history of the state, the signing of the Declaration of Independence, its early struggles against foreign oppressors, its industries, resources, aspirations and arts. In the garden one sees its native trees and flowers blooming; and within the great corridor, in picture, in wondrously colorful mural decorations and in actual exhibits, one may follow the story of Pennsylvania, from the days of William Penn to the present moment.

The building itself is the exponent of the newest in construction, in architecture and decoration. The outside is finished in a smooth stucco, which lends itself wonderfully to the colorful decorations that surmount the stately colonnades. Practically the entire interior is finished in celotex, a lumber manufactured from sugar cane waste. More than 60,000 feet of this material has been used to produce attractive interiors, and at the same time to give greater strength to the structure, and to keep the building at a comfortable temperature all the year round.

Beautiful mural decorations in almost unbelievable richness of color are the work of George Harding, one of Philadelphia's foremost mural painters. It was at his suggestion that this new building material celotex, was employed in this building, because it is one of the few media which does not require a costly finish upon which to work in murals.

Within the building are the booths and exhibits showing the arts, industries and resources of the state. Among the most interesting is a tablet, raised to the memory of Benjamin Franklin, who is revered as the founder of education through schools and through the press in Pennsylvania.

Another building is the Little Temple of Health, a tiny dome, with a glowing globe catching and reflecting the sunshine to show the healing and health bringing power of sunlight.

Three views of Pennsylvania building at Sesqui-Centennial, showing decorative effects.

Much of interior beauty is made possible by art reproduced in celotex.

Vocal Solo—R. N. Lindberg.
Talk—"The Manpower of Our Church"—Rev. Aug. Samuelson.
Selection—Male Chorus.
Announcements and collection.
Song—Audience—Hymnal 172.
Monday evening the brotherhood will hold its regular meeting in the church parlors at 8 o'clock. The pastor will deliver a lecture on the subject: "The Greek Orthodox Church." We look for a large attendance.

Thursday afternoon the ladies' aid of Pillager will meet at the home of Mrs. C. Swanson, southwest of town.

HEDDA HOYT SAYS--

By HEDDA HOYT
PAINTED COWS IN VOGUE

New York, Oct. 9.—I'd never seen a painted cow. At least a skin and bone one. But since Dame Fashion paints their hides I'd sort of like to own one!

The Holstein heifer isn't safe from the ravages of fashion this year. In fact, a barnyard cow of any age, shade or breed is apt to have her hide turned into a flapper's coat if she isn't careful. Straying from the corral means getting caught by the furrier.

Coats made of the black and white fur of the Holstein cow are being featured this week by one of the finest department stores on Fifth Avenue. The black spots and patches on the white backgrounds are not artificially painted nor are they placed at any regular intervals on the coats.

They occur quite naturally just as they grew on old Bossie. The effect is startling enough to bring tears to the eyes of a person who has lived on a farm where the barnyard cow becomes almost a member of the family.

Holsteins are not the only breed of cattle utilized for sports coats since the reddish-hued jersey also comes in for her share of glory. The preferred jersey shades run to tans, beige and reddish casts. It's the spotted cow who is 'spotted' by canny old Dame Fashion and the more spots the better. Where the black and white Holstein coloring is utilized in the making of the short or three-quartered sports coat the skirt is generally made of black velvet.

The Jersey breed demands tannish brown velvet skirts. These cowhide coats need not necessarily be short however to be in vogue since several of the smartest models are full-length. Straight collars, shawl collars, pockets and belts aid in carrying out the sports idea in these various models.

One of the smartest models of three-quarter length has a deep hem-border painted in Autumn leaf design in yellow, gold, brick and brown colorings.

The young calf also does her bit as a millinery trim of times monopolizing the entire high crown of a sports hat.

Life of Eyelashes
Eyelashes have a life of about 130 days, after which the hairs wilt and fall out to make room for new ones.

She Doesn't
We are told that the woman pays, but how about the shoplifter?—Boston Transcript.

Food Staple Depends on Irrigation Work

Among the staple foods raised in Central American regions is one that is almost daily on the tables of rich and poor; this is the garbanzo, or chick-pea. They are successfully grown also in the state of Sonora, Mexico, on the alluvial plains near the mouths of the Mayo and Yaqual rivers, where the altitude is but little above sea level, although they are also grown farther inland at altitudes of 300 feet, more or less, and with more or less success.

The plant is very tender and subject to injury by frost. During the growing season the temperature ranges from 70 degrees Fahrenheit to the freezing point. At planting time, in October, it ranges from 50 to 90 degrees Fahrenheit. The average rainfall in the garbanzo region in the Yaqual valley is nine inches and in the Mayo valley thirteen inches. No rain falls during the growing season of this crop, and the growers depend entirely upon irrigation, for the rains begin in July and end in October, just before the first planting begins.

The garbanzos are harvested in May, when the plants are pulled up by hand in the field and turned over so they will dry thoroughly. They are then carried in bunches to central points in the fields where a threshing floor has been made on smooth beaten ground.—Charles Bell Emerson in Adventure Magazine.

Brown Proved Quite Unable to See Joke

Two bachelors, Smith and Brown, were seated in the flat of the latter.

Smith—Would you like to know the name of your future wife?

Brown—I certainly would.

"Well, I'll guarantee to tell you her name by arithmetic."

"That's impossible."

"Well, you take a piece of paper and work out this sum: Write down the year in which you were born, subtract the last two figures from the first two. Now multiply what remains by the date of the month in which you were born. Divide your answer by two, and tell me the result."

Brown, after a lengthy struggle and much thought, at last works out the problem and hands his friend the result.

Smith—Now these figures obviously indicate that the name of your future wife will be Mrs. Brown.

Brown and Smith are no longer friends.

DR. ROY SMITH'S SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

ANAEMIC TRUTH

The best way to deal with a heretic, whether he is a social, political or religious radical, is not to lock him up but to answer his arguments.

Orthodoxy pays Heresy a great compliment when it demands that the heretic shall be put behind bars for that is a partial admission that he has arguments that cannot be answered.

Orthodoxy's alarm when attacked is poor advertising. It gives the impression that the orthodox are not sure of their position.

Twenty-two karat truth has nothing to fear from error. It may suffer temporary reverses but it can afford to be as patient as destiny for the centuries of eternity are its best defenders.

The race has been building up a conscience on the subject of sex purity for hundreds of years. Can the accumulated convictions of the ages be overthrown by one speech or pamphlet by some sex theorist of the ultra-modern school? If our convictions have so little vitality they deserve to be overthrown.

Religion has enjoyed the services of the best brains, talents and consciences of humanity for years. If the religious life of the race is so anaemic that it can be completely destroyed by the fulminations of some atheist or philosophical faddist then it is certain to fail under the hard blows of experience.

The professional economists have long asserted that certain principles of social administration were false but Russia is trying them. The economists can well afford to give the experiment a hearty welcome. If the economists are right Russia will soon prove it. If Russia is right all the world wants to know it.

If the Russians become happier, enjoy greater liberties and share in more good things under a dictatorship of the proletariat than we do under Democracy we will all want to live under a dictatorship. But if Russia fails the cause of Democracy will be stronger everywhere.

Truth that must depend upon force for its effectiveness is anaemic. Doctrines and beliefs that cannot be trusted to take care of themselves in a rough and tumble world are hardly worth preserving.

ORNATE BUILDING RAISED AS TRIBUTE TO STATE'S HISTORY

A history, a tribute, a prophecy, the beautiful Pennsylvania building, standing almost at the center of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition grounds is a fitting monument to the prowess and progress of the state.

It is built in an open square, facing the entrance, an invitation and a welcome to the visitors who, with Philadelphia, are celebrating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The building has been designed to show, almost at a glance, what this century and a half has meant to Pennsylvania. Beautifully executed panels in bas relief about the wall of this open court recount the early history of the state, the signing of the Declaration of Independence, its early struggles against foreign oppressors, its industries, resources, aspirations and arts. In the garden one sees its native trees and flowers blooming; and within the great corridor, in picture, in wonderfully colorful mural decorations and in actual exhibits, one may follow the story of Pennsylvania, from the days of William Penn to the present moment.

The building itself is the exponent of the newest in construction, in architecture and decoration. The outside is finished in a smooth stucco, which lends itself wonderfully to the colorful decorations that surround the stately colonnades. Practically the entire interior is finished in celotex, a lumber manufactured from sugar cane waste. More than 60,000 feet of this material has been used to produce attractive interiors, and at the same time to give greater strength to the structure, and to keep the building at a comfortable temperature all the year round.

Beautiful mural decorations in almost unbelievable richness of color are the work of George Harding, one of Philadelphia's foremost mural painters. It was at his suggestion that this new building material celotex, was employed in this building, because it is one of the few media which does not require a costly finish upon which to work in murals.

Within the building are the booths and exhibits showing the arts, industries and resources of the state. Among the most interesting is a tablet, raised to the memory of Benjamin Franklin, who is revered as the founder of education through schools and through the press in Pennsylvania.

Another building is the Little Temple of Health, a tiny dome, with a glowing globe catching and reflecting the sunshine to show the healing and health bringing power of sunlight.

Three views of Pennsylvania building at Sesqui-Centennial, showing decorative effects.

Much of interior beauty is made possible by art reproduced in celotex.

HEDDA HOYT SAYS--

By HEDDA HOYT
PAINTED COWS IN VOGUE

New York, Oct. 9.—
I'd never seen a painted cow
At least a skin and bone one
But since Dame Fashion paints their hides
I'd sort of like to own one!

The Holstein heifer isn't safe from the ravages of fashion this year. In fact, a barnyard cow of any age, shade or breed is apt to have her hide turned into a flapper's coat if she isn't careful. Straying from the corral means getting caught by the furrier.

Coats made of the black and white fur of the Holstein cow are being featured this week by one of the finest department stores on Fifth Avenue. The black spots and patches on the white backgrounds are not artificially painted nor are they placed at any regular intervals on the coats.

They occur quite naturally just as they grew on old Bossie. The effect is startling enough to bring tears to the eyes of a person who has lived on a farm where the barnyard cow becomes almost a member of the family.

Holsteins are not the only breed of cattle utilized for sports coats since the reddish-hued jersey also comes in for her share of glory. The preferred jersey shades run to tans, beige and reddish casts. It's the spotted cow who is 'spotted' by canny old Dame Fashion and the more spots the better. Where the black and white Holstein coloring is utilized in the making of the short or three-quartered sports coat the skirt is generally made of black velvet.

The jersey breed demands tannish brown velvet skirts. These cow-hide coats need not necessarily be short however to be in vogue since several of the smartest models are full-length. Straight collars, shawl collars, pockets and belts aid in carrying out the sports idea in these various models.

One of the smartest models of three-quarter length has a deep hem-border painted in Autumn leaf design in yellow, gold, brick and brown colorings.

The young calf also does her bit as a millinery trim of times monopolizing the entire high crown of a sports hat.

Food Staple Depends on Irrigation Work

Among the staple foods raised in Central American regions is one that is almost daily on the tables of rich and poor; this is the garbanzo, or chick-pea. They are successfully grown also in the state of Sonora, Mexico, on the alluvial plains near the mouths of the Mayo and Yaqual rivers, where the altitude is but little above sea level, although they are also grown farther inland at altitudes of 300 feet, more or less, and with more or less success.

The plant is very tender and subject to injury by frost. During the growing season the temperature ranges from 70 degrees Fahrenheit to the freezing point. At planting time, in October, it ranges from 50 to 90 degrees Fahrenheit. The average rainfall in the garbanzo region in the Yaqual valley is nine inches and in the Mayo valley thirteen inches. No rain falls during the growing season of this crop, and the growers depend entirely upon irrigation, for the rains begin in July and end in October, just before the first planting begins.

The garbanzos are harvested in May, when the plants are pulled up by hand in the field and turned over so they will dry thoroughly. They are then carried in bunches to central points in the fields where a threshing floor has been made on smooth beaten ground.—Charles Bell Emerson in Adventure Magazine.

Brown Proved Quite

Unable to See Joke

Two bachelors, Smith and Brown, were seated in the flat of the latter.

Smith—Would you like to know the name of your future wife?

Brown—I certainly would.

"Well, I'll guarantee to tell you her name by arithmetic."

"That's impossible."

"Well, you take a piece of paper and work out this sum: Write down the year in which you were born, subtract the last two figures from the first two. Now multiply what remains by the date of the month in which you were born. Divide your answer by two, and tell me the result."

Brown, after a lengthy struggle and much thought, at last works out the problem and hands his friend the result.

Smith—Now these figures obviously indicate that the name of your future wife will be Mrs. Brown.

Brown and Smith are no longer friends.

LOCALS LOSE A HEART BREAKING BATTLE

B. H. S. SUCCUMBS
IN LAST MINUTE
TO AITKIN, 9-7

PUTZ SCORES FIRST BRAINERD
TOUCHDOWN, FITZHARRIS
KICKS GOAL

ROGERS IS BIG-GUN FOR WIN-
NERS SCORING ALL POINTS
FOR AITKIN

The Brainerd high school football squad succumbed to a last minute attack on the part of Aitkin at the latter place yesterday afternoon, and lost a heart-breaking battle by a score of 9 to 7.

Putz starred for Brainerd with his heavy line-smashing, especially in the third and fourth quarters. He plunged over the goal line for Brainerd's first touchdown of the season, going over at the beginning of the last period after he and Fitzharris had smashed their way from their own 20 yard line to the Aitkin five yard line. Putz won the belt buckle outfit offered by the John M. Bye Clothing Co. for making Brainerd's first touchdown.

Aitkin scored in the first half when Rogers, right half, dropkicked for three points, standing on the thirty yard line for the kick. It was a beautiful kick, sailing nicely over the crossbar with the wind. Rogers was their big gun of the day, making the touchdown in the final seconds to win the contest.

During the first half the teams played on even terms, but with the second half, the Brainerd line and backfield started to function together. First they held the Aitkin line for downs, then started their smashing. A forward pass was almost disastrous, when this same Rogers intercepted it and raced to midfield before being dragged down, but shortly thereafter, when Aitkin was forced to punt, Brainerd started the march down the field that did not end until Putz went over. Beginning at their own 20 yard line, the Brainerd men rushed the ball through beautiful openings made by the linemen down to their opponents' 25 yard line, when the quarter ended. Changing goals, Brainerd continued down the line. A pass, Wise to Fitzharris, netted 10 yards. Putz smashed through for five, Fitzharris added five on an off-tackle play, and then Putz was called on for the rest, making good on a beautiful dive through the line. Fitzharris dropkicked for the extra point. Aitkin elected to receive, and returned the kickoff to midfield. They drove through for a first down, then were given considerable assistance in the form of a 15 yard penalty for roughing. They brought the ball to the six yard line, with four downs to make goal. The Brainerd line held for three downs, but on the fourth try, Rogers went off left tackle for the goal. They missed the try for the extra point, but it was not needed, as the whistle blew a few seconds after the touchdown was made.

The Brainerd team showed a great improvement over the week before, when they went to Staples and were beat 26 to 0. Wise handled the team well from quarterback, and in addition returned a punt about thirty yards. On this return Fitzharris put out three would-be tacklers to give Wise a clear field.

Putz plunged well through the line, backed up the line in splendid manner, and did the punting. On the line, every man was good, with special mention deserved by Derosier, Brown, and Grenier. Derosier played the game with a pair of bad hands, but they did not seem to inconvenience him, as Aitkin was unable to gain through him. Brown did some nice passing from center position. Grenier, while playing end, cut off several threatened runs by Aitkin. Greger and Hanson also played fine games on the line, as did Finne up to the time he had to leave the game with an injured leg.

Brainerd plays the first home game on Saturday, taking on Crosby-Iron-ton here. Crosby-Ironton met defeat at the hands of Staples yesterday by a score of 35 to 0.

MISS GLENNA COLLETT TURNS TABLES ON HER YOUNG RIVAL

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Revenge was sweet today for Miss Glenna Collett, who was beaten last week in the national women's championships by Miss Virginia Wilson of Chicago.

Miss Collett turned the tables on the youthful western player yesterday beating her in the final round of their match for the Berthelley cup over the Huntingdon Valley course.

This is the second time Miss Collett has won the Berthelley cup. The other time was in 1921.

MANY CHAMPIONS DEFEATED THIS YEAR

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 9.—A year of startling upsets, the defeats of Bill Tilden, Bobby Jones, Paavo Nurmi and Jack Dempsey, gave experts who were brave enough to make predictions an awful beating.

Only one star came through for the prophets and he was Walter Hagen, who won the professional golf championship for the third straight time.

It's always safe to pick Hagen in a money contest, however, as the expert takes about as much chance in picking him as in sitting and writing on Saturday that the next day will be Sunday.

Tilden blamed his defeat in the national tennis championship on a bad knee but as it was pointed out from Paris earlier in the season, Tilden or no other player can beat Cochet when he is right. Unfortunately, however, Cochet only has a couple of good days a season and they seldom come at the right time.

Perhaps Tilden did have a bad knee but it is not stretching a point to assume that he is through. Perhaps he suffered an interior collapse like Dempsey did. They both looked fine on the surface but when the test came the fire within seemed to have burned out.

Bobby Jones, of course, made no alibi. He is not that kind. His defeat was not shocking, however, as that of Tilden and Dempsey. Golf players are seldom able to hold form through a long season and it wasn't Bobby's day. This is in no way meant to detract from the credit due to George Von Elm, because he has been touted since last winter as a prospective champion. Von Elm is a real champion and one of the finest amateur golfers in the world.

He has confidence in himself. It will be recalled that he turned down a big prize in the rich California open championship last winter just so he could be eligible for the amateur championships this season.

Nurmi's defeat by Wide, the Swedish runner, was not astounding because in two Olympic games Wide showed that he was a coming star. Nurmi perhaps was at the peak of his form when he was running here and it may be that like Tilden and Dempsey, he came to a natural decline. Runners can come back and it may be that Nurmi will be just as invincible in the Amsterdam Olympic games as he was in Paris.

It is hard to explain the sudden decline of Jack Dempsey. Those who say that he laid down and that the fight was fixed must have suspicions that the Germans laid down to the American army at Verdun because every military expert said the Americans could not take the position.

Dempsey took the worst beating that a heavyweight champion has suffered since the days of John L. Sullivan.

"I thought Jess Willard had his face caved in by Dempsey at Toledo as bad as any face could stand, but Dempsey was beaten much worse," Tex Rickard said.

This fact should go to disprove the charge often made that Dempsey had his hands packed in Toledo. Tunney certainly didn't have his gloves loaded as he put on the gauze and the tape in the ring under the eyes of an inspector of the Pennsylvania Boxing commission and two of Dempsey's seconds.

In no other game but boxing would the defeat of a champion be questioned. Certainly no one would dare suggest or even believe that Tilden took a dive and if any one even whispered anything about Bobby Jones he ought to be shot. Nurmi wouldn't slow up because he has too much pride and he doesn't know enough to do it.

The failure of the Pittsburgh Pirates to repeat their victory in the National league pennant race, the collapse of the New York Giants and the Washington Senators and the victory of the New York Yankees in the American league pennant race, along with the other upsets may be blamed, perhaps, on an unnatural year.

After all of these reverses, Harvard may be able to win a "Big Three" football game this year.

NOW FIGURE BEING NEAR VICTORY GOAL

ON LONG TRAIN RIDE, HUGGINS
RETICENT ABOUT PITCH-ING CHOICE

ROGERS HORNSBY CONFIDENT
OF ABILITY OF VETERAN
ALEXANDER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 9.—Within striking distance of the world's championship, the New York Yankees returned to their home field today, confident of beating the St. Louis Cardinals in the sixth and possibly final game of the world series at the Yankee stadium this afternoon.

The Yankees, with a margin of three victories to two, figured that they were the assured champions. However, the veteran Yankees had to reckon with a veteran, Grover Cleveland Alexander, grand old man of the Cardinal pitching staff.

On the long train ride from St. Louis to New York yesterday, Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, said he was not certain which pitcher he would use today. His choice lay between Urban Shocker, Bob Shawkey and Dutch Reuther.

Rogers Hornsby, the young manager of the St. Louis club, said that he had all the confidence in the world in Alexander's ability to win the game.

Riding in on the train, the morale of the Yanks was much higher than that of the Cardinals. When the Cards went to St. Louis they went to a town that was stark mad and they were received with a demonstration that was frenzied. But when the Cardinals left St. Louis headed by a game it was a different story.

When the two teams arrived in New York the demonstration was slight. A crowd at the station cheered but the city generally accepted the two champion ball clubs with very little fervor.

Smart baseball men figured that Huggins, gambling everything for the one game today that would win the series, would start Shawkey and if he failed throw in Reuther, all the time having Hoyt ready to go.

New series attendance and receipts were assured. The Yankee office announced last night that the big stadium had been sold out for today. More than 300,000 spectators have paid nearly $1,100,000 to see the series, including today's game.

CARDINALS SMASH WAY TO SIXTH GAME WIN

to Bottomley on a spectacular stop and throw, Meusel stopping at third. Dugan up. Dugan out. Bell to Bottomley on the first ball. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

Alexander was saved by two highly spectacular stops and throws by Thevenow after his defense had given Meusel a fluke double.

THIRD INNING

ST. LOUIS—Southworth up. Foul, strike one. Southworth lined to Combs who almost fumbled but held the ball after juggling it twice. Hornsby up. Hornsby out, Koenig to Gehrig on the first ball. Another fast play. Bottomley up. Bottomley popped to Gehrig back of first. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Shawkey was still being forced to work hard and was pulled out of a prospective hole by Combs' fine catch of Southworth's drive.

NEW YORK—Severeid up. Strike one, called. Severeid singled over second. Shawkey up. Shawkey was safe at first when Thevenow fumbled a hard hit drive. Severeid stopped at second. It was an error for Thevenow. Combs up. Strike one, called. Combs hit to Alexander who retired Severeid with a throw to Bell at third. Koenig up. Koenig flied to Southworth in deep right, the runners holding their bases. Ruth up. Strike one, called. Ruth out. Bottomley unassisted on a great stop by the St. Louis first baseman. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, ONE ERROR.

Alexander worked brilliantly and gamely in pitching to Ruth and forced the home run king to hit at a bad one inside for the third out.

FOURTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—L. Bell up. Ball one. Ball two. Strike one, called. Ball three. Strike two. Bell walked. Hafey up. Hafey sacrificed, Shawkey to Gehrig on the first pitch. O'Farrell up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Bell out stealing, Severeid to Dugan. Ball two. Ball three. Strike

two. O'Farrell flied to Meusel. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

The Yankee battery outguessed St. Louis and frustrated a hit and run play by serving O'Farrell with a pitch out and throwing out Bell on his attempt to reach third.

NEW YORK—Meusel up. Strike one, swung. Ball one. Meusel doubled down left field line and went to third when Hafey fumbled. It was scored as a triple by the official scorers. Gehrig up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Ball two. Gehrig out, Hornsby to Bottomley. Meusel scoring. Lazzeri up. Strike one, called. Lazzeri out, Thevenow to Bottomley. Bottomley made a fancy stop of a bad thrown ball. Dugan up. Ball one. Dugan singled past Thevenow to left field. Severeid up. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two. Severeid fanned. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Alexander made a mistake in grooving one to Meusel that cost him a run. Hornsby pulled him out of the hole by making a fine stop on Gehrig.

FIFTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Thevenow up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Thevenow singled to left field between Koenig and Dugan. Alexander up. Alexander sacrificed, Gehrig unassisted. Gehrig tagged him out on the base line, Thevenow stopping at second. Holm up. Ball one. Holm scored Thevenow with a single to center field. Southworth up. Southworth out, Dugan to Gehrig on a fast play. Holm stopped at second. Hornsby up. Foul, strike one. Ball one. Foul, strike two. Ball two. Ball three. Hornsby out, Lazzeri to Gehrig. Gehrig made a brilliant stop and quick throw. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Lazzeri's fine stop on Hornsby pulled Shawkey out of a bad hole and furnished another fine fielding feature.

NEW YORK—Shawkey up. Strike one, swung. Strike two, swung. Ball one. Shawkey fanned. Combs up. Ball one. Combs flied to Hafey who had to move only a few steps for the catch. Koenig up. Koenig flied to Holm on the first ball. Holm came in fast behind second for the catch. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Alexander continued to work easily and confidently and mixed his balls with inside curves.

SIXTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Bottomley up. Foul, strike one. Foul, strike two. Ball one. Ball two. Foul. Foul. Bottomley doubled off the right field wall, Ruth making a fine fast play and throw back to the infield. Bell up. Foul, strike one. Strike two, called. Foul. Bell fanned. Hafey up. Foul, strike one. Ball one. Ball two. Strike two, swung. Hafey fanned. O'Farrell up. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. O'Farrell fouled to Dugan in front of the stands. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

Shawkey pitched smartly in fanning Bell and Hafey and forcing O'Farrell into a pop foul, but he was being forced to pitch his best on every ball.

NEW YORK—Ruth up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Ball two. Ball three. Strike two, called. Foul. Ruth walked. Meusel flied to Holm on the first ball, Ruth holding first. Gehrig up. Strike one, called. Strike two, swung. Foul. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Gehrig fanned, and Ruth stole second, taking the bag with a nice slide. Lazzeri up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Lazzeri flied to Holm. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Alexander was still fooling the heavy hitting Yank batters with curve balls. He did not pass Ruth intentionally, but failed to make him hit at bad balls.

SEVENTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Thevenow up. Ball one. Thevenow singled to left in front of Meusel. Alexander up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Alexander was safe at first on a bunt when Lazzeri dropped Severeid's throw. It was an error for Lazzeri. Holm up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Holm forced Thevenow at third. Severeid to Dugan, on a bunt. Southworth up. Strike one, swung. Southworth scored Alexander with a double over Meusel's head, Holm stopping at third. Meusel badly misjudged the drive. Hornsby up. Shawkey was removed from the box and Shocker relieved him for New York. Alexander was credited with a sacrifice hit on the play on which he reached first. Severeid got an assist and Lazzeri received the error. Hornsby up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Hornsby scored Holm and Southworth with a single to center field. Bottomley up. Foul, strike one. Bottomley forced Hornsby at second, Koenig unassisted, and was almost doubled at first. Lester Bell up. Ball one. Foul, strike one. Ball two. Strike two, called. Bell hit a home run into left field bleachers, scoring Bottomley ahead of him. It was a hard line drive far over Meusel's head. Hafey up. Ball one. Ball two. Hafey doubled over Koenig's head to left field. O'Farrell up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. O'Farrell fanned. FIVE RUNS, FIVE HITS, ONE ERROR.

NEW YORK—Dugan up. Foul, strike one. Strike two, swung. Foul. Dugan was safe at first when Bell fumbled. It was a hard hit drive and was scored as a single. Severeid up. Ball one. Severeid was safe at first on Bell's wild throw. Dugan going to third. Paschal batting for Shocker and up. Adams ran for Severeid. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. Paschal fanned on a low curve. Combs up. Foul, strike one. Combs scored Dugan with a line single to center, Adams stopping at second. Koenig up. Koenig out, Bottomley unassisted, both runners advancing. Ruth up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Ruth out, Thevenow to Bottomley on a fast play. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

EIGHTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Thomas and Collins now battery for New York. Thevenow up. Ball one. Thevenow was hit by a pitched ball. Alexander up. Alexander forced Thevenow at second on an attempted sacrifice. Thomas to Koenig. Holm up. Holm hit into a double play, Gehrig to Koenig. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

NEW YORK—Meusel up. Strike one, swung. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Meusel walked. Gehrig up. Strike one. Strike two, swung. Ball one. Foul. FOOTBALL WEATHER FOR BASEBALL AT NEW YORK CITY

New York, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Blankets were needed this morning by the fans waiting at the gates of the Yankee stadium for admission to the sixth game of the world series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals.

The weather was bleak. The mercury hovered around 47 degrees and slight north winds sent chills through the early bird fans. The sky was overcast, but it was too cold for rain.

Warmer weather was forecast for tomorrow, when the seventh game will be played if the Cardinals win today.

LOCALS LOSE A HEART BREAKING BATTLE

B. H. S. SUCCUMBS
IN LAST MINUTE
TO AITKIN, 9-7

PUTZ SCORES FIRST BRAINERD
TOUCHDOWN, FITZHARRIS
KICKS GOAL

ROGERS IS BIG GUN FOR WIN-
NERS SCORING ALL POINTS
FOR AITKIN

The Brainerd high school football squad succumbed to a last minute attack on the part of Aitkin at the latter place yesterday afternoon, and lost a heartbreaking battle by a score of 9 to 7.

Putz starred for Brainerd with his heavy line-smashing, especially in the third and fourth quarters. He plunged over the goal line for Brainerd's first touchdown of the season, going over at the beginning of the last period after he and Fitzharris had smashed their way from their own 20 yard line to the Aitkin five yard line. Putz won the belt buckle outfit offered by the John M. Bye Clothing Co. for making Brainerd's first touchdown.

Aitkin scored in the first half when Rogers, right half, dropped for three points, standing on the thirty yard line for the kick. It was a beautiful kick, sailing nicely over the crossbar with the wind. Rogers was their big gun of the day, making the touchdown in the final seconds to win the contest.

During the first half the teams played on even terms, but with the second half, the Brainerd line and backfield started to function together. First they held the Aitkin line for downs, then started their smashing. A forward pass was almost disastrous, when this same Rogers intercepted it and raced to midfield before being dragged down, but shortly thereafter, when Aitkin was forced to punt, Brainerd started the march down the field that did not end until Putz went over. Beginning at their own 20 yard line, the Brainerd men rushed the ball through beautiful openings made by the linesmen down to their opponents' 25 yard line, when the quarter ended. Changing goals, Brainerd continued down the line. A pass, Wise to Fitzharris, netted 10 yards. Putz smashed through for five, Fitzharris added five on an off-tackle play, and then Putz was called on for the rest, making good on a beautiful dive through the line. Fitzharris dropkicked for the extra point. Aitkin elected to receive, and returned the kickoff to midfield. They drove through for a first down, then were given considerable assistance in the form of a 15 yard penalty for roughing. They brought the ball to the six yard line, with four downs to make goal. The Brainerd line held for three downs, but on the fourth try, Rogers went off left tackle for the extra point, but it was not needed, as the whistle blew a few seconds after the touchdown was made.

The Brainerd team showed a great improvement over the week before, when they went to Staples and were beat 26 to 0. Wise handled the team well from quarterback, and in addition returned a punt about thirty yards. On this return Fitzharris put out three would-be tacklers to give Wise a clear field.

Putz plunged well through the line, backed up the line in splendid manner, and did the punting. On the line, every man was good, with special mention deserved by DeRosier, Brown, and Grenier. DeRosier played the game with a pair of bad hands, but they did not seem to inconvenience him, as Aitkin was unable to gain through him. Brown did some nice passing from center position. Grenier, while playing end, cut off several threatened end runs by Aitkin. Croger and Hanson also played fine games on the line, as did Finne up to the time he had to leave the game with an injured leg.

Brainerd plays the first home game on Saturday, taking on Crosby-Ironton here. Crosby-Ironton met defeat at the hands of Staples yesterday by a score of 35 to 0.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Revenge was sweet today for Miss Glenna Collett, who was beaten last week in the national women's championships by Miss Virginia Wilson of Chicago.

Miss Collett turned the tables on the youthful western player yesterday beating her in the final round of their match for the Berthelby cup over the Huntingdon Valley course.

This is the second time Miss Collett has won the Berthelby cup. The other time was in 1921.

MANY CHAMPIONS DEFEATED THIS YEAR

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 9.—A year of startling upsets, the defeats of Bill Tilden, Bobby Jones, Paavo Nurmi and Jack Dempsey, gave experts who were brave enough to make predictions an awful beating.

Only one star came through for the prophets and he was Walter Hagen, who won the professional golf championship for the third straight time. It's always safe to pick Hagen in a money contest, however, as the expert takes about as much chance in picking him as in sitting and writing on Saturday that the next day will be Sunday.

Tilden blamed his defeat in the national tennis championship on a bad knee but as it was pointed out from Paris earlier in the season, Tilden or no other player can beat Cochet when he is right. Unfortunately, however, Cochet only has a couple of good days a season and they seldom come at the right time.

Perhaps Tilden did have a bad knee but it is not stretching a point to assume that he is through. Perhaps he suffered an interior collapse like Dempsey did. They both looked fine on the surface but when the test came the fire within seemed to have burned out.

Bobby Jones, of course, made no alibi. He is not that kind. His defeat was not shocking, however, as that of Tilden and Dempsey. Golf players are seldom able to hold form through a long season and it wasn't Bobby's day. This is in no way meant to detract from the credit due to George Von Elm, because he has been touted since last winter as a prospective champion. Von Elm is a real champion and one of the finest amateur golfers in the world.

He has confidence in himself. It will be recalled that he turned down a big prize in the rich California open championship last winter just so he could be eligible for the amateur championships this season.

Nurmi's defeat by Wide, the Swedish runner, was not astounding because in two Olympic games Wide showed that he was a coming star. Nurmi perhaps was at the peak of his form when he was running here and it may be that like Tilden and Dempsey, he came to a natural decline. Runners can come back and it may be that Nurmi will be just as invincible in the Amsterdam Olympic games as he was in Paris.

It is hard to explain the sudden decline of Jack Dempsey. Those who say that he laid down and that the fight was fixed must have suspicions that the Germans laid down to the American army at Verdun because every military expert said the Americans could not take the position.

Dempsey took the worst beating that a heavyweight champion has suffered since the days of John L. Sullivan.

"I thought Jess Willard had his face caved in by Dempsey at Toledo as bad as any face could stand, but Dempsey was beaten much worse," Tex Rickard said.

This fact should go to disprove the charge often made that Dempsey had his hands packed in Toledo. Tunney certainly didn't have his gloves loaded as he put on the gauze and the tape in the ring under the eyes of an inspector of the Pennsylvania Boxing commission and two of Dempsey's seconds.

In no other game but boxing would the defeat of a champion be questioned. Certainly no one would dare suggest or even believe that Tilden took a dive and if any one even whispered anything about Bobby Jones he ought to be shot. Nurmi wouldn't slow up because he has too much pride and he doesn't know enough to do it.

The failure of the Pittsburgh Pirates to repeat their victory in the National league pennant race, the collapse of the New York Giants and the Washington Senators and the victory of the New York Yankees in the American league pennant race, along with the other upsets may be blamed, perhaps, on an unnatural year.

After all of these reverses, Harvard may be able to win a "Big Three" football game this year.

RETICENT ABOUT PITCH-

ROGERS HORNSBY CONFIDENT
OF ABILITY OF VETERAN
ALEXANDER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 9.—Within striking distance of the world's championship, the New York Yankees returned to their home field today, confident of beating the St. Louis Cardinals in the sixth and possibly final game of the world series at the Yankee stadium this afternoon.

The Yankees, with a margin of three victories to two, figured that they were the assured champions. However, the veteran Yankees had to reckon with a veteran, Grover Cleveland Alexander, grand old man of the Cardinal pitching staff.

On the long train ride from St. Louis to New York yesterday, Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, said he was not certain which pitcher he would use today. His choice lay between Urban Shocker, Bob Shawkey and Dutch Reuther.

Rogers Hornsby, the young manager of the St. Louis club, said that he had all the confidence in the world in Alexander's ability to win the game.

Riding in on the train, the morale of the Yanks was much higher than that of the Cardinals. When the Cards went to St. Louis they went to a town that was stark mad and they were received with a demonstration that was frenzied. But when the Cardinals left St. Louis headed by a game it was a different story.

When the two teams arrived in New York the demonstration was slight. A crowd at the station cheered but the city generally accepted the two champion ball clubs with very little fervor.

Smart baseball men figured that Huggins, gambling everything for the one game today that would win the series, would start Shawkey and if he failed throw in Reuther, all the time having Hoyt ready to go.

New series attendance and receipts were assured. The Yankee office announced last night that the big stadium had been sold out for today. More than 300,000 spectators have paid nearly $1,100,000 to see the series, including today's game.

to Bottomley on a spectacular stop and throw, Meusel stopping at third. Dugan up. Dugan out, Bell to Bottomley on the first ball. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

Alexander was saved by two highly spectacular stops and throws by Thevenow after his defense had given Meusel a fluke double.

THIRD INNING
ST. LOUIS—Southworth up. Foul, strike one. Southworth lined to Combs who almost fumbled but held the ball after juggling it twice. Hornsby up. Hornsby out, Koenig to Gehrig on the first ball. Another fast play. Bottomley up. Bottomley popped to Gehrig back of first. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Shawkey was still being forced to work hard and was pulled out of a prospective hole by Combs' fine catch of Southworth's drive.

NEW YORK—Severeid up. Strike one, called. Severeid singled over second. Shawkey up. Shawkey was safe at first when Thevenow fumbled a hard hit drive. Severeid stopped at second. It was an error for Thevenow. Combs up. Strike one, called. Combs hit to Alexander who retired Severeid with a throw to Bell at third. Koenig up. Koenig flied to Southworth in deep right, the runners holding their bases. Ruth up. Strike one, called. Ruth out, Bottomley unassisted on a great stop by the St. Louis first baseman. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, ONE ERROR.

Alexander worked brilliantly and gamely in pitching to Ruth and forced the home run king to hit at a bad one inside for the third out.

FOURTH INNING
ST. LOUIS—L. Bell up. Ball one. Ball two. Strike one, called. Ball three. Strike two. Bell walked. Hafey up. Hafey sacrificed, Shawkey to Gehrig on the first pitch. O'Farrell up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Bell out stealing, Severeid to Dugan. Ball two. Ball three. Strike

two. O'Farrell flied to Meusel. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

The Yankee battery outguessed St. Louis and frustrated a hit and run play by serving O'Farrell with a pitch out and throwing out Bell on his attempt to reach third.

NEW YORK—Meusel up. Strike one, swung. Ball one. Meusel doubled down left field line and went to third when Hafey fumbled. It was scored as a triple by the official scorers. Gehrig up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Ball two. Gehrig out, Hornsby to Bottomley, Meusel scoring. Lazzeri up. Strike one, called. Lazzeri out, Thevenow to Bottomley. Bottomley made a fancy stop of a bad thrown ball. Dugan up. Ball one. Dugan singled past Thevenow to left field. Severeid up. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two. Severeid fanned. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Alexander made a mistake in grooving one to Meusel that cost him a run. Hornsby pulled him out of the hole by making a fine stop on Gehrig.

FIFTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Thevenow up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Thevenow singled to left field between Koenig and Dugan. Alexander up. Alexander sacrificed, Gehrig unassisted. Gehrig tagged him out on the base line, Thevenow stopping at second. Holm up. Ball one. Holm scored Thevenow with a single to center field. Southworth up. Southworth out, Dugan to Gehrig on a fast play. Holm stopped at second. Hornsby up. Foul, strike one. Ball one. Foul, strike two. Ball two. Ball three. Hornsby out, Lazzeri to Gehrig. Gehrig made a brilliant stop and quick throw. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Lazzeri's fine stop on Hornsby pulled Shawkey out of a bad hole and furnished another fine fielding feature.

NEW YORK—Shawkey up. Strike one, swung. Strike two, swung. Ball one. Shawkey fanned. Combs up. Ball one. Combs flied to Hafey who had to move only a few steps for the catch. Koenig up. Koenig flied to Holm on the first ball. Holm came in fast behind second for the catch. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Alexander continued to work easily and confidently and mixed his balls with inside curves.

SIXTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Bottomley up. Foul, strike one. Foul, strike two. Ball one. Ball two. Foul. Foul. Bottomley doubled off the right field wall, Ruth making a fine fast play and throw back to the infield. Bell up. Foul, strike one. Strike two, called. Foul. Bell fanned. Hafey up. Foul, strike one. Ball one. Ball two. Strike two, swung. Hafey fanned. O'Farrell up. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. O'Farrell fouled to Dugan in front of the stands. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

Shawkey pitched smartly in fanning Bell and Hafey and forcing O'Farrell into a pop foul, but he was being forced to pitch his best on every ball.

NEW YORK—Ruth up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Ball two. Ball three. Strike two, called. Foul. Ruth walked. Meusel flied to Holm on the first ball, Ruth holding first. Gehrig up. Strike one, called. Strike two, swung. Foul. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Gehrig fanned, and Ruth stole second, taking the bag with a nice slide. Lazzeri up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Lazzeri flied to Holm. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

Alexander was still fooling the heavy hitting Yank batters with curve balls. He did not pass Ruth intentionally, but failed to make him hit at bad balls.

SEVENTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Thevenow up. Ball one. Thevenow singled to left in front of Meusel. Alexander up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Alexander was safe at first on a bunt when Lazzeri dropped Severeid's throw. It was an error for Lazzeri. Holm up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Holm forced Thevenow at third. Severeid to Dugan, on a bunt. Southworth up. Strike one, swung. Southworth scored Alexander with a double over Meusel's head. Holm stopping at third. Meusel badly misjudged the drive. Hornsby up. Shawkey was removed from the box and Shocker relieved him for New York. Alexander was credited with a sacrifice hit on the play on which he reached first. Severeid got an assist and Lazzeri received the error. Hornsby up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Hornsby scored Holm and Southworth with a single to center field. Bottomley up. Foul, strike one. Bottomley forced Hornsby at second, Koenig unassisted, and was almost doubled at first. Lester Bell up. Ball one. Foul, strike one. Ball two. Strike two, called. Bell hit a home run into left field bleachers, scoring Bottomley ahead of him. It was a hard line drive far over Meusel's head. Hafey up. Ball one. Ball two. Hafey doubled over Koenig's head to left field. O'Farrell up. Ball one. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. O'Farrell fanned. FIVE RUNS, FIVE HITS, ONE ERROR.

NEW YORK—Dugan up. Foul, strike one. Strike two, swung. Foul. Dugan was safe at first when Bell fumbled. It was a hard hit drive and was scored as a single. Severeid up. Ball one. Severeid was safe at first on Bell's wild throw. Dugan going to third. Paschal batting for Shocker and up. Adams ran for Severeid. Strike one, called. Strike two, called. Paschal fanned on a low curve. Combs up. Foul, strike one. Combs scored Dugan with a line single to center, Adams stopping at second. Koenig up. Koenig out, Bottomley unassisted, both runners advancing. Ruth up. Strike one, called. Ball one. Ruth out, Thevenow to Bottomley on a fast play. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

EIGHTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Thomas and Collins now battery for New York. Thevenow up. Ball one. Thevenow was hit by a pitched ball. Alexander up. Alexander forced Thevenow at second on an attempted sacrifice. Thomas to Koenig. Holm up. Holm hit into a double play, Gehrig to Koenig. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

NEW YORK—Meusel up. Strike one, swung. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Meusel walked. Gehrig up. Strike one. Strike two, swung. Ball one. Foul. Gehrig singled to Hornsby who made a sensational stop and almost completed the out with a fast throw, Meusel stopping at second. Lazzeri up. Ball one. Ball two. Strike one, called. Lazzeri flied to Hafey who made a nice catch in the sun, the runners holding their bases. Dugan up. Ball one. Dugan lined to Southworth, who made a shoestring catch and doubled Meusel at second with a quick throw to Hornsby. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

NINTH INNING

ST. LOUIS—Southworth up. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two. Ball one. Ball two. Ball three. Foul. Foul. Southworth doubled to center and went to third when the ball got away from Combs. It was a three base clout for Southworth. Hornsby up. Ball one. Hornsby out, Dugan to Gehrig, Southworth scoring. Thomas knocked down the ball and got an assist. Bottomley up. Bottomley out on the first ball, Gehrig unassisted. L. Bell up. Ball one. Strike one, swung. Ball two. Bell singled to right and was out at second trying for an extra base. Ruth to Lazzeri. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

NEW YORK—Collins up. Strike one, swung. Strike two, called. Ball one. Foul into the grand stand. Collins fanned. Reuther batting for Thomas, up. Foul, strike one. Reuther out, Hornsby to Bottomley. Combs doubled to right on the first ball, Southworth failing to make a shoestring catch. Koenig up. Koenig flied to Holm. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

COUNTY'S SHARE OF STATE SCHOOL MONEY

County's Share of Semi-Annual Distribution is $24,200

CHECKS ARE DISTRIBUTED

Distribution is Based on Public School Enrollment of Counties

Public school treasuries throughout the state will shortly be enriched to the extent of $2,032,634, the amount representing the semi-annual apportionment of the Current School Fund.

Checks bearing the signature of Ray P. Chase, State Auditor, were this week forwarded to the eighty-seven county treasuries of the state, who, in turn, will distribute the amount noted among the public schools of their respective districts. Crow Wing county's share of this semi-annual distribution of state school money is $24,200 and is based on a public school enrollment of 6,050 listed at the close of the school year, ending July 31 last. Pupils attending school the required number of days share to the extent of $4.00 each.

The October distribution of the Current School Fund represents the earnings of the State School Trust Funds and returns from the one mill school tax. The one other distribution from this same source is in March of each year.

According to tabulations filed by the various county school superintendents with the State Board of Education, the total public school enrollment for the year ending July 31 last was 549,899. This is a net gain of 3,943 pupils over the previous year and at the same time, the average daily attendance rose from 439,197, or eighty percent of the total enrollment, to 445,150, or eighty-two percent.

In all, 508,091 pupils, who attended school the required number of days, participate in the distribution, each being credited with a school attendance of 144.2 for the year. As stated, the distribution is on the basis of $4.00 per pupil, which was the figure a year ago.

Naturally the population centers share the heaviest because of their large enrollment. Hennepin county, with 87,163 pupils listed, receives a check for $348,652; Ramsey county with 43,010 pupils receives $172,040, and St. Louis county with 54,099 pupils, receives $216,396. The smallest check, $1,728, was received by Cook county. Pupils participating numbered 432. The latest county creation, Lake of the Woods, received $4,488, based on a pupil enrollment of 1,122.

The Lowell Parent Teachers Association will hold its first regular meeting of this year, Tuesday evening, October 12, and will be a reception for the teachers given by a committee of parents.

The following committees are working hard to make the evening an enjoyable and profitable one: Reception committee—Mrs. W. C. Rasch and Mrs. Elmer Forsberg. Program committee—Mrs. Gust Lind.

Refreshment committee—Mrs. J. W. Gallagher, Mrs. Archie Templeton, Mrs. F. M. Kelly, Mrs. A. C. Shepherd and Mrs. S. H. Wooden.

A very good program of speaking and musical numbers has been prepared, and will be given in full in Monday's Dispatch.

WHAT PRICE IS CONSCIENCE? ODD HAPPENING IN CANBY

Canby, Minn., Oct. 9.—(UP)—What price conscience?

It took only a few words and a silver dollar to clear the troubled mind of a farmer, who lives a few miles south of here.

Some 30 years ago, a boy of 15 or 16, shivering in the cold of a Minnesota winter, stepped into the P. A. Larson general store here to warm himself.

Nobody paid any attention to him. He stole a pair of warm gloves, picked them up and walked out unnoticed.

The farmer was that youth. A few days ago he stopped Larson, owner of the store, on the street, confessed that his conscience had been bothering him all these years and asked what it would take to get right with the world.

It took the silver dollar. Larson, who did not recall the theft, says he wishes the conscience of the man who stole a pair of shoes a few years ago would become active.

COUNTY'S TAX ON INHERITANCE

Estates Probated in Crow Wing for Year Ending June 30, 1926

TOTALLED 23 ESTATES

County's Share Was $1,701.35; State Total, $930,283.70

Estates probated throughout Minnesota for the year ending June 30 last, paid a total of $930,283.70 into the state treasury in the shape of inheritance taxes. In all, 1069 estates contributed.

Under the inheritance tax act, ten percent of the amount collected in each county is returned to the county and this week Ray P. Chase, State Auditor, mailed checks to each, in accordance with the law. A total of $93,028.37 was distributed.

As in other tax distributions, counties like Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis profit the heaviest, but this is because of the fact that their contributions in inheritance taxes are larger than the other eighty-four counties' and the return is in keeping with the amount.

Crow Wing county's share covering 23 estates is $1,701.35. The smallest check, $1.21 was received by Carlton county and the largest, $47,395.64, by Hennepin county. Ramsey county received $21,362.56 and St. Louis county $5,077.68.

Crow Wing county's estates probated for the year ending June 30 last follows: Dr. Walter Courtney, James S. Gardner, Mary Peterson, Simon Henry Palomaki, Emma Bartling, Mary Gordon, Louise M. Congdon, Anne E. Scofield, Alexander M. Nelson, George Kinney, Augusta Grief, Edna H. Baker, Cuyler Culver Adams, Annie Rose, Louis Peterson, Robert Gibby, John Torgerson, Sven Anderson, Gustafson, Angate Grief, George Kinney, John Bailey, John Peterson, John Knutson.

EXHIBITS CHICKEN HAWK

Chicken Hawk With Spread of Wings Measuring Five Feet is Exhibited

A chicken hawk with a spread of wings measuring five feet is on display in a cage in front of the Northern Home Co. store, Sixth street, and is quite an attraction to passersby.

The hawk was captured by a preacher at Longville, Minn., who found the bird on the road a short way from Brainerd. The hawk had one of his wings injured and was unable to fly.

SUPREME TALL CEDAR COMING

J. Edgar Grater Will Make Special Trip From Royersford, Pa.

MANY DELEGATES COMING

Celebration of Tall Cedars to be Held Here on October 16

J. Edgar Grater, Supreme Tall Cedar, of Royersford, Pa., will be in attendance at the grand celebration of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon to be held in Brainerd on October 16, it was announced this morning by members of the arrangement committee.

The appearance of Mr. Grater at the celebration, who will make the trip special from Royersford to attend the celebration here, will add much to the importance of the affair.

Virginia, Minn., will send the largest delegation. They will have 35 to 40 members with seven or eight candidates, their Tall Cedar quartet and will put on a 25 minute playlet with 30 people taking part. They will also bring with them their drum corps.

Duluth will send its drum corps and delegates and large delegations are expected from Cloquet and Owatonna.

Tall Cedars who will arrive early in the city next Saturday will receive the opportunity of taking part in the Aard Temple parade from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m.

The Tall Cedars organization is the playground of the Blue Lodge of Masonry while the Shrine is the playground of the higher masonry. This will be the largest gathering of visiting Masons ever to assemble in Brainerd.

SPEED DISPLAYED IN ROAD PAVING

Sixth Street Paving Was Completed This Morning by Contractors

WORK ON HIGHWAY NO 27

Approximately Two and One Quarter Miles Remain to be Paved

Two and one quarter miles remain to be paved on Highway No. 27 before it is completed to Brainerd, it was announced this morning by A. W. Moulster, state highway engineer of the district.

The contractors, Ostrand & Hall, are now working on the pavement at Buffalo creek and are pushing their way on the last lap of two and one quarter miles to Brainerd.

The distance represents 120 stations, each station equalling 100 feet. With an average of 1100 feet of paving laid per day or five days to one mile it is estimated that with good weather conditions the paving will be completed in about two weeks.

The paving of Sixth street was completed to day, thus completing all paving of the highway including the intersection at Sixth and Laurel streets to be done on the highway through the city.

The contractors have moved their machinery from the work in Brainerd which will be brought in to assist the other machinery this side of Buffalo creek.

BAND GIRLS ENJOY COSTUME PARTY

Mrs. Winifred Cronk Ziebell, Director, Entertained Girls Last Evening

HAD FUN GALORE

Snatch Grab Costume Party Out-classed Wadena Event

For honest to goodness fun, even counting that eventful occasion at Wadena when the girls were chased by cattle and they went scurrying over the fence at the county fair there, the party given by Mrs. Winifred Cronk Ziebell in honor of the girls of the Brainerd Ladies band last night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, romped off with highest honors.

The party was a snatch grab costume affair, one of those parties when each girl brings a costume wrapped in a bundle and after all the bundles were deposited in the middle of the floor, the leader gave the word and all the girls made, as it were, one dive for a costume in the heap.

The rule was that the girls must wear the costume they grabbed from the heap. And fun—say there were some very unique costumes in the pile had they been allotted to the girls who were best suited for each particular costume. But as it happened—well the costumes were pretty well distributed and it was too much fun for words.

Games were played, music rendered, special dancing and what not else. Mrs. Ethel Fox and her trio were called upon to give their special musical offering, Mayme Scallie and her quartet gave their own musical entertainment. Isabel Reinhardt and Dixie Thompson gave an acrobatic stunt and they were called upon to give it three times before the evening's entertainment was over. The last time the ambitious acrobats almost got their act right.

Gladys Senn was called upon to give an aesthetic dance.

Following the entertainment a delicious luncheon was served.

SEEK SPECIAL SESSION OF HOUSE

TO INVESTIGATE CORRUPTION CHARGES IN INDIANA'S POLITICAL UPHEAVAL

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Demand for a special session of the state senate to investigate corruption charges in Indiana's latest political upheaval was carried direct to members of the upper house today. Thomas Adams, head of a committee of editors probing the political activities of D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon, sent a telegram to all state senators, asking if they would join in a call for a special session of the senate.

Adams was proceeding on the theory that a majority of the state senators would call the body together for an investigation.

In some legal quarters it is held that only the governor is empowered to call such a special session.

Governor Jackson is not in favor of a special session, holding that Adams' charges of corruption and manipulation of appointments by Stephenson can be thoroughly investigated by the attorney general's office and the Marion county prosecutor.

COUNTY'S SHARE OF STATE SCHOOL MONEY

County's Share of Semi-Annual Distribution is $24,200

CHECKS ARE DISTRIBUTED

Distribution is Based on Public School Enrollment of Counties

Public school treasuries throughout the state will shortly be enriched to the extent of $2,032,634, the amount representing the semi-annual apportionment of the Current School Fund.

Checks bearing the signature of Ray P. Chase, State Auditor, were this week forwarded to the eighty-seven county treasuries of the state, who, in turn, will distribute the amount noted among the public schools of their respective districts.

Crow Wing county's share of this semi-annual distribution of state school money is $24,200 and is based on a public school enrollment of 6,050 listed at the close of the school year, ending July 31 last. Pupils attending school the required number of days share to the extent of $4.00 each.

The October distribution of the Current School Fund represents the earnings of the State School Trust Funds and returns from the one mill school tax. The one other distribution from this same source is in March of each year.

According to tabulations filed by the various county school superintendents with the State Board of Education, the total public school enrollment for the year ending July 31 last was 549,899. This is a net gain of 3,943 pupils over the previous year and at the same time, the average daily attendance rose from 439,197, or eighty percent of the total enrollment, to 445,150, or eighty-two percent.

In all, 508,091 pupils, who attended school the required number of days, participate in the distribution, each being credited with a school attendance of 144.2 for the year. As stated, the distribution is on the basis of $4.00 per pupil, which was the figure a year ago.

Naturally the population centers share the heaviest because of their large enrollment. Hennepin county, with 87,163 pupils listed, receives a check for $348,652; Ramsey county with 43,010 pupils receives $172,040, and St. Louis county with 54,099 pupils, receives $216,396. The smallest check, $1,728, was received by Cook county. Pupils participating numbered 432. The latest county creation, Lake of the Woods, received $4,488, based on a pupil enrollment of 1,122.

The Lowell Parent Teachers Association will hold its first regular meeting of this year, Tuesday evening, October 12, and will be a reception for the teachers given by a committee of parents.

The following committees are working hard to make the evening an enjoyable and profitable one: Reception committee—Mrs. W. C. Rasch and Mrs. Elmer Forsberg. Program committee—Mrs. Gust Lind.

Refreshment committee—Mrs. J. W. Gallagher, Mrs. Archie Templeton, Mrs. F. M. Kelly, Mrs. A. C. Shepherd and Mrs. S. H. Wooden.

A very good program of speaking and musical numbers has been prepared, and will be given in full in Monday's Dispatch.

WHAT PRICE IS CONSCIENCE? ODD HAPPENING IN CANBY

Canby, Minn., Oct. 9.—(UP)—What price conscience?

It took only a few words and a silver dollar to clear the troubled mind of a farmer, who lives a few miles south of here.

Some 30 years ago, a boy of 15 or 16, shivering in the cold of a Minnesota winter, stepped into the P. A. Larson general store here to warm himself.

Nobody paid any attention to him. He spied a pair of warm gloves, picked them up and walked out unnoticed.

The farmer was that youth. A few days ago he stopped Larson, owner of the store, on the street, confessed that his conscience had been bothering him all these years and asked what it would take to get right with the world.

It took the silver dollar. Larson, who did not recall the theft, says he wishes the conscience of the man who stole a pair of shoes a few years ago would become active.

COUNTY'S TAX ON INHERITANCE

Estates Probated in Crow Wing for Year Ending June 30, 1926

TOTALLED 23 ESTATES

County's Share Was $1,701.35; State Total, $930,283.70

Estates probated throughout Minnesota for the year ending June 30 last, paid a total of $930,283.70 into the state treasury in the shape of inheritance taxes. In all, 1060 estates contributed.

Under the inheritance tax act, ten percent of the amount collected in each county is returned to the county and this week Ray P. Chase, State Auditor, mailed checks to each, in accordance with the law. A total of $93,028.37 was distributed.

As in other tax distributions, counties like Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis profit the heaviest, but this is because of the fact that their contributions in inheritance taxes are larger than the other eighty-four counties' and the return is in keeping with the amount.

Crow Wing county's share covering 23 estates is $1,701.35. The smallest check, $1.21 was received by Carlton county and the largest, $47,395.64, by Hennepin county. Ramsey county received $21,362.56 and St. Louis county $5,077.68.

Crow Wing county's estates probated for the year ending June 30 last follows: Dr. Walter Courtney, James S. Gardner, Mary Peterson, Simon Henry Palomaki, Emma Bartling, Mary Gordon, Louise M. Condon, Anne E. Scofield, Alexander M. Nelson, George Kinney, Augusta Grief, Edna H. Baker, Cuyler Culver Adams, Annie Rosa, Louis Peterson, Robert Gibby, John Torgerson, Sven Anderson, Gustafson, Angate Grief, George Kinney, John Bailey, John Peterson, John Knutson.

EXHIBITS CHICKEN HAWK

Chicken Hawk With Spread of Wings Measuring Five Feet is Exhibited

A chicken hawk with a spread of wings measuring five feet is on display in a cage in front of the Northern Home Co. store, Sixth street, and is quite an attraction to passersby. The hawk was captured by a preacher, residing at Longville, Minn., who found the bird on the road en route from Brainerd. The hawk had one of his wings injured and was unable to fly.

SUPREME TALL CEDAR COMING

J. Edgar Grater Will Make Special Trip From Royersford, Pa.

MANY DELEGATES COMING

Celebration of Tall Cedars to be Held Here on October 16

J. Edgar Grater, Supreme Tall Cedar, of Royersford, Pa., will be in attendance at the grand celebration of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon to be held in Brainerd on October 16, it was announced this morning by members of the arrangement committee.

The appearance of Mr. Grater at the celebration, who will make the trip special from Royersford to attend the celebration here, will add much to the importance of the affair.

Virginia, Minn., will send the largest delegation. They will have 35 to 40 members with seven or eight candidates, their Tall Cedar quartet and will put on a 25 minute playlet with 30 people taking part. They will also bring with them their drum corps.

Duluth will send its drum corps and delegates and large delegations are expected from Cloquet and Owatonna.

Tall Cedars who will arrive early in the city next Saturday will receive the opportunity of taking part in the Aad Temple parade from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m.

The Tall Cedars organization is the playground of the Blue Lodge of Masonry while the Shrine is the playground of the higher masonry. This will be the largest gathering of visiting Masons ever to assemble in Brainerd.

FATE OF FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL NOW WITH THE JURY

JURY IN DAUGHERTY-MILLER CASE FAILED TO REACH VERDICT LAST NIGHT

CONSIDERED CASE 2 HOURS AND THEN RETIRED TO SEPARATE ROOMS

By E. W. LEWIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Oct. 9.—The fate of Harry M. Daugherty, once attorney general of the United States, and Colonel Thomas W. Miller, former custodian of alien property, was in the hands of the jury early today.

The jury will resume deliberations at 10:20 A. M. It failed to reach a verdict in two hours' consideration of the case last night and was taken to a hotel where each juror was locked up in a separate room.

Daugherty and Miller are charged with conspiracy to deprive the government of their unbiased services while in office. It was charged that they shared a bribe for the favored interests in the award to Swiss claimants of the $7,000,000 assets of the American Metals Company, which were impounded by this government as alien property during the war.

Apparently the jury was hopeful of reaching a verdict early when it began consideration of the case, for it was excused at 11 P. M. to go to bed. The jurors, however, remained in the jury room until within five minutes of the time the building was locked before consenting to separate for the night.

The case was given the jury at 9:45 o'clock last night after Federal Judge Julian W. Mack spent nearly two hours in reading his instructions on the law and evidence. He told the jurors they could return any one or two of six verdicts. These were acquittal or conviction of both defendants or acquittal or conviction of them separately.

CHICAGO FACES MARYLAND TODAY

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The University of Chicago football team today faced its second intersectional battle of this season with Maryland as its opponent.

The outcome of the game was considered problematical. Coach Stagg at Chicago has a green but fighting team. The Maryland outfit on early season dope, was considered strong, but a 20 to 0 defeat by South Carolina last week somewhat upset this.

However, middle westerners are rather inclined to take this defeat as an early season upset.

Both coaches have announced that practically their full strength will be in the game.

The crowd was expected to break early season records.

RIPON COLLEGE TO MEET HAMLINE

Fond Du Lac, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—In a setting colorful with displays of collegiate ardor, something new to the citizens of Fond Du Lac, Ripon College, of Ripon, Wis., will meet Hamline here this afternoon on a neutral gridiron, the first game in Ripon's new policy of playing one contest on neutral territory each year.

The game will be the initial contest of the season for both schools in the Midwest conference and it is expected to be a thriller as the invaders from St. Paul are reputed to have a strong eleven.

HAWKEYES ARE TO MEET NORTH DAKOTA

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Coach Burton Ingwersen will send a revamped Hawkeye squad to the fray against North Dakota on Iowa field this afternoon.

Captain Paul Smith, benched a week ago by injuries, will probably play right end. Armlil has replaced Grimm in the backfield and Beyers will start at quarter instead of Skelley. Kutsch will call signals from left half. Several other changes were made.

WISCONSIN AND KANSAS TO CLASH

Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Kansas and Wisconsin universities eleven, the former coached by Frank Capon, who at one time was learning the game from George Little, present Cardinal coach, at the University of Michigan, will meet on Camp Cardinal field here today. Kansas is a contender for the Missouri Valley conference title and an unknown football quantity to the Badgers.

Northwestern Wildcats Meet Carleton College

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Northwestern's Wildcats play their second football game of the season here today, meeting the Carleton College team from Northfield, Minn. Carleton goes into the game with a light, hard driving team but is again expected to be defeated by the Purple squad.

Coach Thistlewaite of Northwestern has indicated that Leland "Tiny" Lewis, star fullback, who has recently been declared eligible, will see action during part of the game.

In His Hour of Need

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

(Copyright.)

MARISE sang defiantly, head high, eyes snapping, fingers clinched viciously about the broom handle:

My people all get mad with me, For keeping my love company, They may get mad, say what they will, Upon my honor, I love him still.

"Humph! You make me sick! 'Rise, for pity's sake, show a little sense," Sister Ellen flung back sniffling, her jaws set at their grimmest. "I'd hate to see you make such a fool of yourself even over a real man," she went on, "but this two-for-a-nickel squinch owl—why! it's worse'n a crime."

"Unh-hunh! And maybe so!" Marise retorted. "You talk that way because he turned you down—cold. I don't blame him—nobody could that saw you, lookin' like you do right now. As if you'd bit a crabapple or chewed on a rusty nail. I know it's hard to be left dancin' in the pig trough, just because Baby Sister is—so much easier to look at. A peach—that's what Abner calls her. Say—why'n you set your cap at Uncle Abner?"

"Reckon it must be because I never thought of it," Sister Ellen cried shakily—she was in a white rage.

Marise liked to tantalize Ellen, who was ten years older, who had pampered her from the day she was born until the advent of Abner Gaines, Jr., had set things crosswise between them. A pretty fellow, even worse spoiled than Marise, he had somehow, when he came home from college, roused to flame-heat in Ellen all the repressed passion of her loveless youth. He was lightweight, perhaps, yet mighty decent, what there was of him. Ellen had all the money—it had come from her mother, the first Mrs. Gray—but that had made no difference in the spendings of the family. It was tacitly understood it must have whatever it wanted. Ab had asked her leave to court her little sister—since which time his name in her mouth had been anathema.

Godfather Abner's reaction to that had been a thunderous pronouncement that no nephew of his was ever going to marry into any stuck-up family that thought itself above him.

Matters stood thus at the approach of Governor's day. A hurried-up approach—ten days before anybody was ready. That meant a scrappy dinner—

barbecue out of the question—and women, white and black, so taken up with what to wear, they had hardly a thought as to feeding the multitude. Which vexed Uncle Abner no end. He had from his youth upward been the unofficial head and head of all public affairs—in virtue of inclination, appetite and Milly and Phemy, his black house women, whom his mother had trained. Give them time, the keys, and a free hand at everything, they'd turn you out a feast. Now they were visiting down country, kinfolk in numbers like the sands of the sea. The three governors knew Ab and his vials—indeed, they had said that was why they were coming. How could he manage to feed a dozen epicures, all sharpset by a long morning ride?

Almost weeping, he asked young Ab's advice. It was given sportively—with earnest under the jest—and heard spasmodically—betwixt shouting, swearing and at last eloquent silence—which emboldened Ab to chuck his elder roughly under the chin, and say awedly yet with a twinkle: "It's a true leading of Providence."

Abner senior rose at the crack of day, whisked away to the country town, bought new garments, had himself barbered, manicured, even very faintly scented, ate the lightest breakfast of his existence, then did business with his best jeweler, the county officials, and the most persuasive minister current. Further, he bought a new car, dashing but roomy, made his will, held convulse with his bankers, who, after a minute of puzzlement, slapped him jovially on the back and gave him Godspeed, after which on the edge of noon, he was whirled homeward, but halted at the Gray's hospitably open gates, shot through them, to demand insistently, instant speech with Miss Ellen.

"Now look at these!" he commanded when he had gained admission and produced a wrist watch and lavallere, diamond-set both, and flashing along with them a solitaire ring, not over big but perfect.

"Must be you're settin' up to peddle jewelry," from Ellen.

"That's as you say," came back. "Ef they don't suit ye—we can sell 'em." "We!" she gasped.

He nodded, then laid in her hands two folded papers, saying: "My will—and the license—you git all I'm worth after I die—in consideration of comin' home with me to git things all set for them d—d governors."

"This a joke?" Ellen asked sternly, her eyes sparkling.

"Read the will—that'll show you," he said huskily. "I—I sorter got a notion I been wantin' you there at my house the longest time—but never had the sense to know it till right now."

"How about young Ab! I can't leave him out in the cold," Ellen paroled. "But you won't—he'll marry Marise—think what fun we'll have spankin' their babies. There comes Ab now—he's fetchin' the minister. Now where do we go from here?"

"Home," said Ellen without a blush, chuckling in spite of herself.

Roads Laid Out by Animals

There is an idea become current of late that none but a man of science, bred in a school, can lay off a road. This is a mistake. There is a class of topographical engineers older than the schools and more unerring than the mathematicians. They are the wild animals. They travel thousands of miles, have their annual migrations backward and forward, and never miss the best and shortest route. These are the first engineers to lay out a road in a new country; the Indians follow them, and hence a buffalo road becomes a warpath. The first white hunters follow the same trails in pursuing their game, and after that the buffalo road becomes the wagon road of the white man, and finally the railroad of the scientific man.—Senator Benton of Missouri.

Pay Your Debts

Always pay; for, first or last, you must pay your entire debt. Persons and events may stand for a time between you and justice, but it is only a postponement. You must pay at last your own debt. . . . He is great who confers the most benefits. He is base—and that is the one base thing in the universe—to receive favors and render none. In the order of nature we cannot render benefits to those from whom we receive them, or only seldom. But the benefit we receive must be rendered again. line for line, deed for deed, cent for cent, to somebody. Beware of too much good staying in your hand. . . . Pay it away quickly in some sort.—Emerson.

Slip Into It

She sank on the settee in her room with a sigh of intense weariness. "I'm very tired," she said to her new maid. "Bring me something I can slip into."

"Oh will that, ma'am," said the colleen from Connemara.

After a rather long interval the maid returned bearing a tray on which was a thick steak, some fried onions and a bottle of stout.

"Now just be after slippin' into that, mum; it'll do ye good," she said.—London Tit-Bits.

FATE OF FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL NOW WITH THE JURY

JURY IN DAUGHERTY-MILLER CASE FAILED TO REACH VERDICT LAST NIGHT

CONSIDERED CASE 2 HOURS AND THEN RETIRED TO SEPARATE ROOMS

By E. W. LEWIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Oct. 9.—The fate of Harry M. Daugherty, once attorney general of the United States, and Colonel Thomas W. Miller, former custodian of alien property, was in the hands of the jury early today. The jury will resume deliberations at 10:20 A. M. It failed to reach a verdict in two hours' consideration of the case last night and was taken to a hotel where each juror was locked up in a separate room.

Daugherty and Miller are charged with conspiracy to deprive the government of their unbiased services while in office. It was charged that they shared a bribe for the favored interests in the award to Swiss claimants of the $7,000,000 assets of the American Metals Company, which were impounded by this government as alien property during the war.

Apparently the jury was hopeful of reaching a verdict early when it began consideration of the case, for it was excused at 11 P. M. to go to bed. The jurors, however, remained in the jury room until within five minutes of the time the building was locked before consenting to separate for the night.

The case was given the jury at 9:45 o'clock last night after Federal Judge Julian W. Mack spent nearly two hours in reading his instructions on the law and evidence. He told the jurors they could return any one or two of six verdicts. These were acquittal or conviction of both defendants or acquittal or conviction of them separately.

CHICAGO FACES MARYLAND TODAY

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The University of Chicago football team today faced its second intersectional battle of this season with Maryland as its opponent.

The outcome of the game was considered problematical. Coach Stagg at Chicago has a green but fighting team. The Maryland outfit on early season dope, was considered strong, but a 20 to 0 defeat by South Carolina last week somewhat upset this.

However, middle westerners are rather inclined to take this defeat as an early season upset.

Both coaches have announced that practically their full strength will be in the game.

The crowd was expected to break early season records.

RIPON COLLEGE TO MEET HAMLINE

Fond Du Lac, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—In a setting colorful with displays of collegiate ardor, something new to the citizens of Fond Du Lac, Ripon College, of Ripon, Wis., will meet Hamline here this afternoon on a neutral gridiron, the first game in Ripon's new policy of playing one contest on neutral territory each year.

The game will be the initial contest of the season for both schools in the Midwest conference and it is expected to be a thriller as the invaders from St. Paul are reputed to have a strong eleven.

Seemed Like Home

A little girl was crossing the Atlantic with her mother. It was her first ocean trip. The sea was as smooth as the proverbial mill-pond for the first three days; then the ship began rolling and pitching heavily. The child could not understand what had happened. "Mamma," she said, "what's the matter? Are we on a detour?"—American Boy.

HAWKEYES ARE TO MEET NORTH DAKOTA

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Coach Burton Ingwersen will send a revamped Hawkeye squad to the fray against North Dakota on Iowa field this afternoon.

Captain Paul Smith, benched a week ago by injuries, will probably play right end. Armil has replaced Grimm in the backfield and Beyers will start at quarter instead of Skelley. Kutsch will call signals from left half. Several other changes were made.

WISCONSIN AND KANSAS TO CLASH

Madison, Wis., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Kansas and Wisconsin universities eleven, the former coached by Frank Capon, who at one time was learning the game from George Little, present Cardinal coach, at the University of Michigan, will meet on Camp Cardinal Field here today. Kansas is a contender for the Missouri Valley conference title and an unknown football quantity to the Badgers.

Northwestern Wildcats Meet Carleton College

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 9.—(UP)—Northwestern's Wildcats play their second football game of the season here today, meeting the Carleton College team from Northfield, Minn. Carleton goes into the game with a light, hard driving team but is again expected to be defeated by the Purple squad.

Coach Thistlewaite of Northwestern has indicated that Leland "Tiny" Lewis, star fullback, who has recently been declared eligible, will see action during part of the game.

In His Hour of Need

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

(Copyright.)

MARISE sang defiantly, head high, eyes snapping, fingers clinched viciously about the broom handle:

My people all get mad with me, For keeping my love company, They may get mad, say what they will, Upon my honor, I love him still.

"Humph! You make me sick! Rise, for pity's sake, show a little sense," Sister Ellen flung back sniffling, her jaws set at their grimmest. "I'd hate to see you make such a fool of yourself even over a real man," she went on, "but this two-for-a-nickel squinch owl—why! It's worse'n a crime."

"Unh-hunh! And maybe so!" Marise retorted. "You talk that way because he turned you down—cold. I don't blame him—nobody could that saw you, lookin' like you do right now. As if you'd bit a crabapple or chewed on a rusty nail. I know it's hard to be left daugh' in the pig trough, just because Baby Sister is—so much easier to look at. A peach—that's what Abner calls her. Say—why'n you set your cap at Uncle Abner?"

"Reckon it must be because I never thought of it," Sister Ellen cried shakily—she was in a white rage.

Marise liked to tantalize Ellen, who was ten years older, who had pampered her from the day she was born until the advent of Abner Gaines, Jr., had set things crosswise between them. A pretty fellow, even worse spoiled than Marise, he had somehow, when he came home from college, roused to flame-heat in Ellen all the repressed passion of her loveless youth. He was lightweight, perhaps, yet mighty decent, what there was of him. Ellen had all the money—it had come from her mother, the first Mrs. Gray—but that had made no difference in the spendings of the family. It was tacitly understood it must have whatever it wanted. Ab had asked her leave to court her little sister—since which time his name in her mouth had been anathema.

Godfather Abner's reaction to that had been a thunderous pronouncement that no nephew of his was ever going to marry into any stuck-up family that thought itself above him.

Matters stood thus at the approach of Governor's day. A hurried-up approach—ten days before anybody was ready. That meant a scrappy dinner—

barbecue out of the question—and women, white and black, so taken up with what to wear, they had hardly a thought as to feeding the multitude. Which vexed Uncle Abner no end. He had from his youth upward been the unofficial host and head of all public affairs—in virtue of inclination, appetite and Milly and Phemy, his black house women, whom his mother had trained. Give them time, the keys, and a free hand at everything, they'd turn you out a feast. Now they were visiting down country, kinfolk in numbers like the sands of the sea. The three governors knew Ab and his viands—indeed, he had said that was why they were coming. How could he manage to feed a dozen epicures, all sharpset by a long morning ride?

Almost weeping, he asked young Ab's advice. It was given sportively—with earnest under the jest—and heard spasmodically—betwixt shouting, swearing and at last eloquent silence—which emboldened Ab to chuck his elder roughly under the chin, and say awfully yet with a twinkle: "It's a true leading of Providence."

Abner senior rose at the crack of day, whisked away to the country town, bought new garments, had himself barbered, manured, even very faintly scented, ate the lightest breakfast of his existence, then did business with his best jeweler, the county officials, and the most persuasive minister current. Further, he bought a new car, dashing but roomy, made his will, held converse with his bankers who, after a minute of puzzlement, stapped him jovially on the back and gave him Godspeed, after which on the edge of noon, he was whirled homeward, but halted at the Gray's hospitably open gates, shot through them, to demand insistently, instant speech with Miss Ellen.

"Now look at this!" he commanded when he had gained admission and produced a wrist watch and lavallere, diamond-set both, and flashing along with them a solitaire ring, not over big but perfect.

"Must be you're settlin' up to peddle jewelry," from Ellen.

"That's as you say," came back, "Ef they don't suit ye—we can sell 'em." "We!" she gasped.

He nodded, then laid in her hands two folded papers, saying: "My will—and the license—you git all I'm worth after I die—in consideration of comin' home with me to git things all set for them d—d governors."

"This a joke?" Ellen asked sternly, her eyes sparkling.

"Read the will—that'll show you," he said huskily. "I—I sorter got a notion I been wantin' you there at my house the longest time—but never had the sense to know it till right now."

"How about young Ab! I can't leave him out in the cold," Ellen parleyed. "But you won't—he'll marry Marise—think what fun we'll have spankin' their babies. There comes Ab now—he's fetchin' the minister. Now where do we go from here?"

"Home," said Ellen without a blush, chuckling in spite of herself.

A skid-proof automobile invented in England can be run sideways and made to climb curbs.

Roads Laid Out by Animals

There is an idea become current of late that none but a man of science, bred in a school, can lay off a road. This is a mistake. There is a class of topographical engineers older than the schools and more unerring than the mathematicians. They are the wild animals. They travel thousands of miles, have their annual migrations backward and forward, and never miss the best and shortest route. These are the first engineers to lay out a road in a new country; the Indians follow them, and hence a buffalo road becomes a warpath. The first white hunters follow the same trails in pursuing their game, and after that the buffalo road becomes the wagon road of the white man, and finally the railroad of the scientific man.—Senator Benton of Missouri.

Pay Your Debts

Always pay; for, first or last, you must pay your entire debt. Persons and events may stand for a time between you and justice, but it is only a postponement. You must pay at last your own debt. . . . He is great who confers the most benefits. He is base—and that is the one base thing in the universe—to receive favors and render none. In the order of nature we cannot render benefits to those from whom we receive them, or only seldom. But the benefit we receive must be rendered again, line for line, deed for deed, cent for cent, to somebody. Beware of too much good staying in your hand. . . . Pay it away quickly in some sort.—Emerson.

Slip Into It

She sank on the settee in her room with a sigh of intense weariness. "I'm very tired," she said to her new maid. "Bring me something I can slip into."

"Of will that, ma'am," said the colleen from Connemara.

After a rather long interval the maid returned bearing a tray on which was a thick steak, some fried onions and a bottle of stout.

"Now just be a-ther slipping into that, mum; it'll do ye good," she said.—London Tit-Bits.
